Tobias Lawsuit Over 'Disenrollment'

Former Skyline Junior College student president Dan Tobias has filed suit in U.S. District Court in San Francisco, charging his expulsion from school violated his civil rights, an Associated Press dispatch said Tuesday.

Skyline College President Philip Garlington and Skyline Dean of Students James C. Wyatt, named defendants in the suit along with the San Mateo Junior College District, said they had not been served yesterday morning.

Dean Wyatt said that he had had a telephone call from the office of San Mateo County District Attorney Keith Sorenson saying that some sort of restraining order had been filed, and that the D.A.'s office would take care of it.

Tobias, who was disenrolled from the school last Friday by Dean Wyatt after Wyatt said an investigation showed that the former student body leader had attended C. W. Post College for four years but had not listed this on his application, claimed in his petition he was not given fair hearing, or a chance to challenge or explain the charges against him.

He asked the court that he be allowed to continue as a student in good standing until a fair due process hearing is held on the disciplinary matter.

Tobias was recalled Thursday as student body president in a special election at the college, with the issue being Tobias' insistence on keeping an upside down U.S. flag tacked to the student activities office wall. At one time, the upside down flag was photographed in use as an office bulletin board.

But, Dean Wyatt said the flag incident had nothing to do with the disenrollment except that "out of publicity during the flag incident, we learned of Tobias' omission in the application process."

Garlington quoted the requirement on all applications:

"This is to certify that I have attended no institutions other than those listed and the statements are true to the best of our knowledge."

Garlington said Tobias had listed two semesters (1960-1961) at Michigan State University after the student graduated from W.C. Nepham High School, Bellmore, N.Y. in 1960.

"According to information he gave us last week," Garlington said, "he did not include on his application that he enrolled in the fall of 1961 at C.W. Post College. Our information now is that he attended Post four years."

"He admitted to us verbally that nearly every course he has taken here is a repeat of courses he has taken before," Wyatt said.

Garlington noted that among other things, "our rules hold that after a fifth semester a student may not hold student body office. Tobias is in his thirteenth semester."

The college president said that Tobias was told Friday that he would receive a letter of disenrollment and could appeal.

"Anyone who does that sort of thing (falsifying of records) is taking a chance that he might get caught," Wyatt said Friday.

"And, with the notriety Tobias had gotten, some people started looking into his background. It came to my attention through a reliable source that he may have attended another school. So I checked with his old high school back in New York and found out that he had sent his high school transcript to C. W. Post."

"When a person in that spot is found out, believe me, the roof caves in," he said.

As for Tobias, he didn't want to talk about his situation publicly. He said, as expected, that he was in the process of looking for a lawyer in order to fight the matter in the courts Friday.

"This isn't my nature at all, keeping quiet like this," he explained.

"But I really can't say anything right now. I don't want to make any comments about it. When my side does have something to say, I plan to hold a press conference and let everyone know. I can't make any comments about the flag situation. Just say I'm seeking legal counsel."

Tobias is not barred from the campus. He is simply no longer a student.

Wyatt emphasized that a major reason for taking what some had called a considerable length of time to resolve the flag dispute was a legal one.

"We were caught during this whole thing in a conflict be-

South S. F. Survives Simulated 'Holocaust'

By BOB PETERSON

At approximately 11 a.m. Friday, South San Francisco faced a nuclear holocaust. It was simulated, of course. But the training exercise proved, as one participant put it, "quite stimulating."

The action took place in the basement of the West Orange Avenue Library. This is the city's emergency operations center. In case of disaster, natural or man-made, this site becomes seat of government and headquarters for all relief and rescue operations.

Objective of the exercise, known as Emergency Operations Simulation Training (EOST), is total awareness of local emergency preparedness needs.

During the exercise, as with a real situation, the operations center is staffed by city department heads and their subordinates. The library is internally outfitted to sustain its occupants for two weeks.

The South San Francisco program, which is part of clinics established through the University of Southern California with the aid of the Federal Office of Civil Defense, begun Monday of last week.

The operations room was set up with maps and other information displays on the topography and geography of the city.

All participants attended training sessions outlining the procedures. This included simulators, the people, who wrote realistic messages for the Friday exercise. These messages were written so all departments would learn to work together.

Several disasters were simulated during the morning Friday prior to the nuclear detonation, which theoretically took place at Hamilton Air Force Base in Marin County.

Among others, the city's department heads were faced with an airplane crash on sign hill with an estimated 100 persons aboard a fuel barge explosion in the bay with burning fuel being blown into the marina; and a tanker truck colliding with a scenic bus carrying people looking for shelter.

These were incidents that called for swift and accurate action by the various city departments. They also received many messages that had to be culled from more important situations

The Rights of Students

Revolution Reported in the Tangled Rights' Realm

By JOHN HORGAN

Students' rights. Do they really have any?

According to a variety of experts in the field, the situation -- which has been none too good in the past — is improving.

At a Workshop on Juvenile Rights held in Burlingame last week, a number of speakers noted that a revolution is occurring in the tangled realm of the rights of students.

Prompted by increased concern in matters outside the campus and related to the world around them, students both here and across the country have become aware, involved and dedicated to extra-curricular activities of a non-school nature.

Their life styles are changing. Their attitudes are changing. And, their relationships with their elders are changing.

And this is posing problems for those in charge of the schools. Because it is the schools which bear much of the brunt of this youthful activity.

Sometimes, the schools don't handle the situation too well.

Attorney Gerald A. Rosenberg of the San Mateo County Legal Defense Society said that "increasing complaints from students all over the county" lead him to believe there is a "crisis in education" existing here.

Speaking to a group of about 250 educators, probation officers, and policemen at the CTA building in Burlingame, Rosenberg painted a mythical picture of "Riverdale High School," alleged to be a typical high school here in San Mateo County.

Riverdale is beset by a series of incidents which culminate in a student-police confrontation. Rosenberg, who said he used specific incidents from different local schools to form his composite case, blamed most of the trouble (which began when several outspoken students became involved in a heated dispute with a teacher of American Civil War history) could be traced to mistakes on the part of the teacher and the administration.

Step by step, Rosenberg showed why he felt each move by the administration and the teacher were erroneous and actually helped to escalate the situation.

For solutions, Rosenberg listed improved ways that students might be afforded their rights as individuals.

Included in his recommendations were these points:

—Allowing an accused offender in a suspension or expul-

San Brunans to Launch Name Drive

Petition signature seekers will begin traveling San Bruno sidewalks Friday fresh from, recent training on how to approach people, and armed with "Total Recall" brochures.

This was the word issued Wednesday afternoon by the recall committee's publicity chairman Larry Mobley, who said the brochure also is being mailed to 10,000 registered voter households Thursday.

The brochure, using the theme of "Total Recall" in the dual sense of remembering and being able to do something through the legislative recall action, outlines the committee's view.

It says "we (the citizens of San Bruno) can recall with indignation . . . selection of an unqualified applicant for the city's most important administrative position."

It also says "we (the citizens)

Educational Goals Unit In Pacifica

An Educational Goals Committee was formed for the Laguna Salada Elementary School District in Pacifica Monday with Jack Wolf named chairman.

The committee is to formulate a districtwide philosophy of education with the assistance of the community as a whole, according to Supt. James Brien.

Other committee officers are Edyth Lind, Portola School, vice-chairman; Ethel Lebonville, Sharp Park School, secretary; Monica Olson, Crespi School, alternate secretary.

Wolf represents the Pacific Manor School area.

The committee is to compile a list — by priority — of specifics that might make up the philosophy behind the educational goals in each district classroom.

To achieve this, the committee agreed to seek broader representation from students, teachers and minority groups, as well as administrators and the public.

Each member of the committee will spell out his own priority goals for submission at the next full committee meeting November 23.

Bruno Recall Issue: Complaint by Mayor?

'I'm Going to Say Yes, But I Really Didn't'

A San Bruno housewife on Monday challenged councilmen collectively or individually to deny they had filed a complaint against her with the Police Department for supposedly collecting signatures on a recall petition before the legally authorized date.

Mrs. Barbara Ross of 2901 Cottonwood Drive said a formal complaint had been registered with the Police Department and an officer was sent to her home to question her.

She said the officer found the report to be false, that she indeed had not sought signatures on a recall petition. This was verified by the police.

Chief Russell Cunningham explained, however, that no formal complaint had been prepared in the police station. He said the visit to Mrs. Ross' home was a matter of routine investigation "to see if a crime was committed."

Cunningham said "someone reported to the Police Department that Mrs. Ross was overheard to say at a council meeting that she had 40 signatures on a petition."

The chief said he would not say who it was made the report.

Mrs. Ross, meanwhile persisted in getting some kind of response from the councilmen.

"Why was this allegation not made publicly?" she asked. "I bring everything about the recall movement out in the open. If it were true I was violating the law by getting signatures

Restaurant Owner Leaves Sadly—D.C. Rejects Permit

Cesar R. Costa, owner of Caesar's Restaurant in Daly City, sadly left the City Council meeting Monday after hearing his bid for a dance permit unanimously rejected.

The fact that mayor Bernard J. Lycett had informed the Mission street restaurant owner that the dance permit was being denied without prejudice — that he could file again within a few months — had little soothing effect on the man.

"Well, there goes $8,000 and all my work," Costa mumbled as he walked from the council chambers.

According to Costa, restaurants nowadays just can't make it without a dance permit.

He had asked the city for a temporary permit, at the very least, which would allow patrons to enjoy both his Mexican style cooking and the relaxation of dancing.

But councilman Louis J. Papan, while praising Costa on the cleanliness of the establishment and the fine food served there, noted it was the council's policy to disapprove dance permits.

There was no "solid" reason

Personnel Session Asked On Menkin-Reporter Talk

San Bruno Councilman George Corey has called for a personnel session November 20 concerning City Manager Christopher (Kit) Menkin's discussion with a reporter on the city billing Tree Times Five for unauthorized use of city labor.

"I am considerably upset by the city manager's interview on the subject," said Corey.

The councilman pointed out also that he had offered a letter on the subject to the councilmen through a second party at the last meeting because he was vacationing. The letter was rejected at that meeting.

Also set for that evening is a personnel session to select two new members of the city's civil defense advisory committee and a study of cable television's financial status and sales promotion possibilities.

Another Lawsuit in Cab Battle at the SF Airport

Another lawsuit was filed on Monday in the continuing battle among taxi companies at International Airport.

The City and County of San Francisco, which owns and operates the airport, and the Yellow Cab Company of San Francisco, which has an exclusive cab franchise there, filed suit in Superior Court in Redwood City against four unfranchised taxi firms.

Named as defendants Daher Farraj, doing business as Courtesy Cab Company; Joe Gilio, doing business as Yellow Cab Company of South San Francisco; Steve Doob, doing business as Seagull Cab Company, and Samuel Pyatt, doing business as Brisbane Yellow Cab Company.

The suit states that the plaintiff company pays a "substantial consideration," based on the number of arrivals at the airport, for the exclusive right to pick up fares there. The defendants, the complaint alleges, are committing a "continuing trespass" by coming onto the airport and soliciting and accepting fares.

The lawsuit charges that the actions of the defendants "have hampered police supervision of tween emotion and legal action," he said.

Court Battle Shapes In Tobias' Ouster

He said that a primary consideration in the matter has been to make sure the student body was overwhelmingly supportive of the administration's action.

Thus far, he noted, there has been no violence on campus, no loss of class time, no use of police force and no physical damage to the school's plant.

"There has been a strict us of rules and regulations here," Wyatt added as he displayed a letter of commendation from an official of the U.S. Justice Department in San Francisco.

"You know what other colleges have gone through over things like this," he said.

"We don't want that kind of thing here."

Wyatt explained that not everyone on campus is happy with the administration actions taken in recent weeks.

Some faculty members have complained bitterly about "repressive tactics" being employed to kick Tobias out.

Some members of the immediate North County community have voiced the opinion that Wyatt and his staff did not act quickly enough to save the honor of the flag.

Through it all has been the specter of a soon-to-be-decided-upon tax override issue which is of vital concern to everyone connected with the local junior college system.

At times, Wyatt lamented, he feels as if the whole future of that upcoming vote is resting on his shoulders.

The recall action followed Tobias' vetoing a student council vote to remove an upside-down American Flag from the student activities office.

The vote was 394 to recall; against, 189. The recall procedure demanded a two-thirds affirmative vote; it passed by 16 votes.

More than 50 per cent of the 1,100 student body card holders participated in the election, in contrast to the less than 200 who voted last May in the election that gave Tobias the office.

Taking over as student body president is Nick Nicholas of Daly City, current vice president and member of the school's soccer team.

A San Mateo Junior College District official, business manager Matt Fasanaro, last week told a North County Council of Cities meeting in Daly City that Tobias may have been out to destroy the upcoming March, 1971, special election to secure an override tax.

And he attacked those student governments not representative of a college's entire student body as "the most important thing harmful to the image of colleges today."

He cited the election of Tobias last May by less than 178 voting students, out of 2,000 attending, as a case in point.

Earlier, the college administration took up the flag incident with County District Attorney Keith Sorenson, Fasanaro said, reporting that the administrators were told that any action would have to procede with caution, and that cases such as the flag incident were difficult to pursue.

Meanwhile, Fasanaro told the councilmen, the CSM students are now attempting to raise enough funds to finance the additional cost of a special override tax election — funds that he said will be needed if the three campuses are to be kept operating at full student enrollment.

Without financial help, he said, some 10,000 students will be denied education here in the next two years.

"Where will the monies come from?" asked Daly City Mayor Bernard J. Lycett.

When it was suggested the money would again have to come from property owners, Lycett urged that the colleges should explore other areas.

sion case to confront his accusers and to be represented by legal counsel if so desired.

—Allowing the atmosphere of the classroom itself to become an area where real argument and discussion can take place regardless of the rhetoric used by some of the students.

—Clarifying and, if necessary, revamping codes of student conduct.

—Making sure that parents of Spanish-speaking students understand what may be happening to their child when disciplinary action is contemplated by the school authorities.

—Rethinking the process of expulsion and suspension in order to use those devices only for the truly disruptive student who can be handled in no other manner.

—And, making certain that a socially troublesome student's grades aren't lowered because of his lack of conformist appearance or attitudes.

Dr. George Chaffey, superintendent of the Sequoia Union High School District, explained that his district is learning how to deal with the whole question of students' rights.

He said that the district's dress codes have been altered rather radically in recent months and that rules for such things as underground newspapers on campus are scheduled to be made up soon.

"We think there are more important things to worry about than dress codes," Dr. Chaffey added.

Everyone in the audience did not agree with some of the statements being made, however.

One educator stood up and expressed deep frustration with the recent emphasis on students' rights.

"A lot of us are just giving up," he offered.

"We don't want all the hassles involved in all this. It's too much trouble. It's just not worth it."

Dr. Chaffey responded by stating that, "This kind of frustration is dangerous. Don't quit. Don't give up. Things are tough on all of us now, but we can work it out."

have the constitutional right to recall public officials who have acted against the will of the people."

The committee has 60 days, from Thursday, to gather 4,000 signatures on each of the three recall petitions. Mobley said he is confident the workers will have 5,000 names — 1,000 for good measure — within one week.

Recall Committee Chairman Orville Wycoff said at least 120 persons will be out seeking signatures. Monday night, as well as one day last week, persons scheduled to solicit signatures underwent brief training sessions, as Mobley says, "explaining the steps and duties" of petition carriers.

One question remains unanswered, but not of seeming importance to recall committee members. It is whether persons who did not vote in the November 3 election will be eligible to sign a petition. Mobley said a ruling is being made on this matter.

"I think we have done a fair job of explaining the situation," said Mobley. "We are making every effort not to get off the track on this. Our only purpose is to recall three councilmen who we believe have done a grave injustice and disservice to the community."

Mobley then briefly rebutted the rebuttal statements made by the three objects of the recall. These statements were made in answer to the intention to circulate a recall petition.

He noted that Councilman Dick Griffith referred to the fact the appointment of the city manager was in full compliance of the law, "as Superior Court Judge Melvin Cohn has ruled." Said Mobley, "The judge also said it is up to the voters to decide the outcome. That is specifically what we intend to have them do."

Mobley also claimed Griffith's reference to the fact citizens may become liable for large fines or prison terms "is an effort to intimidate and harass.

"We are advised by people who know codes backward and forward," said Mobley. It (Griffith's statement) has no meaning, but it has had its effect."

Mayor Neil Christal's answer to the notice to recall, asked several questions. Among them was an inference that large apartment builders are behind the recall.

"I personally am not aware of any apartment builders behind this," said Mobley.

Mayor Christal also stated the recall was possibly masterminded by "a former city councilman and the campaign manager of a present city councilman."

Mobley said he would have to make a guess like anyone else but figured Christal meant former City Councilman Karney Barberian and Anthony Governale.

"Mr. Barberian has never been involved. He has been steadfast against it," said Mobley. "He apparently feels it would appear he was trying to get revenge for his defeat at the last council election."

Mobley said Governale has contributed only his knowledge of San Bruno's precinct breakdown. "He came in at our request," said Mobley, "But not until two months after the committee was organized."

Disaster Day Sharpens City Emergency Crews

at the time; like the lady from the Westborough section who supposedly called in to complain of a dust problem.

Don Allen, the city's part-time civil defense coordinator, said, "It was a worthwhile exercise." Allen, who also shares his time with San Carlos and San Bruno, added that he would share both the good and the bad experiences of this exercise with those cities.

Lt. Jim Keane of the police department, a simulator, said the exercise "showed just how unprepared the city is."

A point brought out by most department heads during the critique session was the lack of communications between departments.

"It was of great value," said John Hoffman, the city's landscape specialist. "It pointed out we need further training and definitely motivated me because it also showed the problems that will arise in an emergency situation."

John Yarberry, who works at the library and has the added duty of shelter manager, pointed up the immediate need for more shelter managers within the city. South San Francisco now has 2,000 shelter spaces in the city. The population is approximately 47,000.

Teamwork required was termed invaluable. It also was pointed out that those businesses with equipment that might be helpful in an emergency situation should be included in future civil defense planning.

The example given to bring this fact home was that a decision was made to commandeer groceries but there were no city trucks available to haul them.

Police Chief Sal Rosano said, "The simulators provided situations that could really occur. They really tested our ability to respond."

early why not file the complaint with the district attorney? And if it's true, why was the information not withheld in order to nullify the recall?

"It is harrassment and attempted intimidation," said Mrs. Ross.

At this point, Mayor Neil Christal suggested that if she thinks she's being harrassed and intimidated she ought to sit in his seat. "I won't poll the council on this," said Christal.

Councilman George Corey said "I don't want the chair to speak for me." He then said he had not filed any complaint. One-by-one denials were made by Councilmen Maurice Hamilton, Dick Griffith and Ted Long.

Mrs. Ross looked at Mayor Christal. She asked if he would respond.

"I'm going to say yes. But I really didn't," said Christal.

Mrs. Ross later said, "According to what I consider reliable sources, it was Mayor Christal who had filed the complaint"

Mrs. Ross recently was involved in another recall movement episode in which she and several other recall proponents received flyers in the mail indicating the council meetings (because of the recall effort) have taken on a circus atmosphere.

At that time she said she knew who had sent the flyer because she traced the postage meter number on the envelope. According to her, the person was also a member of the Millbrae-San Bruno Jaycees.

This bit of information prompted the Jaycees to issue a press release on the subject of the recall.

It says the Jaycees "have not taken part in any activity that could be considered either in support of or in fact against the current San Bruno council disturbance."

The release noted that one of the members was on a recall committee and another member is an object of the recall.

A final paragraph said, "Members of the club have varying degrees of opinions on the subject although all agree that any recall should apply to all councilmen and not just a select few."

given by any of the five councilmen as to why dance permits have been historically denied, except to point out there has always been a reluctance on the part of the city in this field and that Costa's had only been open for four months.

Papan suggested the restaurant owner concentrate solely on the food and come before the council for a dance permit at a later date.

Director of Finance John B. Massen in a letter to the council regarding the dance permit noted Costa's restaurant conformed with all applicable laws and regulations according to several city departments conducting inspections of the premises.

There are only two other restaurants in the city that have such permits. One recently closed its doors because of slow business, it was understood.

At an earlier study session on the question of dance permits in the city, the council expressed fear that some establishments might use the permit to channel in go go dancers.

At present the city has an unusual battle going with the Outer Limits, a Geneva avenue bar which is mainly in San Francisco, except for a sign which is barely in Daly City.

traffic, obstructed traffic flow and resulted in disorderly and aggressive solicitation of customers by drivers of various taxicab companies."

The plaintiffs join in asking the court for a restraining order and injunction against the defendants soliciting or accepting fares except by appointment. In addition, the San Francisco cab company asks for unspecified money damages for the alleged diminution of the value of its exclusive contract.

A similar lawsuit filed several weeks ago against another South San Francisco-based taxi firm, the Yellow Cab Company of Pacifica, is pending in the Redwood City court and was scheduled for hearing this afternoon before Judge Frank W. Rose.

Depletion of Funds Seen

Another attempt to negotiate a satisfactory wage and benefit package for county government employes was decided upon yesterday morning by the board of Supervisors.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson told the supervisors they had no choice but to "meet and confer" with employee representatives as requested by Frank Gillis of Employee Union Local 829.

Gillis charged that "meet and confer" sessions held last week pursuant to a court order were not held "in good faith" on the part of county officials. He said the county's negotiators at no time made any proposals other than the 1971 pay plan recommended by the Civil Service Commission.

In order to clear the way for the new negotiating attempt, the board voted not to approve the commission plan at this time. The board then met in secret session with aides of County Manager M. D. Tarshes, who will do the actual negotiating.

Supervisors James V. Fitzgerald indicated he will insist that any fringe benefits granted employes as a result of the talks be subtracted from a total wage-benefit package. He pointed out that approval of the pay plan recommended by the commission would more than deplete the county's contingency fund.

Personnel Director Richard T. Kennedy estimated the cost of the pay increases for the last half of the 1970-71 fiscal year, January through June, at slightly more than $1 million.

Dimond Water District's Merger With D.C. Urged

Daly City City Manager David Rowe charged Nov. 3 that the Dimond Public Utility District could not justify higher rates for its water users and urged immediate steps be taken to merge the district and city.

Officials of the utility district attending the meeting indicated they were somewhat taken aback by the talk of a merger and had assumed the discussions would center on engineering matters.

Dimond Board President McMalone Counts disagreed with Rowe's charges that his district could not supply water and make necessary improvements in the system without raising rates.

He took exception to Mayor Bernard J. Lycett's charge his board had been "procrastinating" in recent months.

Lycett had used the term after asking Counts when the small 650 consumer district in the Bayshore section of the city would complete improvements.

In the past talks between the two boards, Lycett said the utility district had informed the city that it would go along with annexation once it had completed certain water system improvements.

Lycett said the utility district had delayed on these improvements for years and wanted to know when they could expect to be completed to the satisfaction of the board.

Counts said he could make no comments inasmuch as he did not come prepared to answer these "allegations or assertions."

The meeting at times became a series of personality arguments between Counts and members of the council.

Councilman McRobert Stewart and Counts heartily disagreed on accusations made by Stewart that the water district president was contradicting statements on a completion date for the system improvements.

Counts shot back "you've (the council) tried to pick a fight at the last two meetings."

In all, there have been five such meetings since the Bayshore District was annexed to Daly City in 1963.

Rowe in his arguments for annexation of the district said the merger had been anticipated once all improvemenrts in the original project program had been completed.

According to the city manager these improvements have been completed.

One School District Cut Taxes

School district tax rates, as most residents probably have noticed on their new tax bills by now, have gone up this year.

The rates listed by elementary district for this fiscal year include the applicable high school and junior college district rates and the county-levied "areawide" tax.

San Bruno Park lowered its own elementary rate from $3.5736 in 1969-70 to $3.4268 for the 1971-'71 fiscal year, or nearly 15 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, more than offsetting increases in the San Mateo Union High School and San Mateo Junior College district rates. The net reduction for San Bruno Park district residents is 10.31 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The county's three unified districts were listed by themselves since they include everything but the junior college rate. Of these the Cabrillo Unified School District actually lowered its own rate one-tenth of a cent but showed a 1.23-cent gross gain because of the junior college rate increase of 1.33 cents.

The three high school districts in the county went: San Mateo 12.65 cents, Jefferson 15.17 cents and Sequoia 26.46 cents.

The highest total rate in the county belongs to the Ravenswood City School District, with an $8.4307 levy. It had the largest total increase in the county, 96.55 cents. The Ravenswood district raised its own rate some 70 cents.

The second high is the Jefferson Elementary School District at $8.0613, with Laguna Salada third with $7.5908.

The average increase among the 20 elementary and unified districts this year was 35.5165 cents.

Below are current total rates, listed alphabetically and including size of increases from the last fiscal year:

Bayshore $6.8418, up 30.24 cents; Belmont $6.8378, up 62.90; Brisbane $6.8919, up 21.63; Burlingame $5.3887, up 4.03;

Hillsborough City $6.3694, up 41.67; Jefferson $8.0613, up 26.82; Laguna Salada $7.5908, up 21.48; Las Lomitas $7.1912, up 52.49;

Menlo Park City $6.1823, up 26.32; Millbrae $5.6267, up 27.54; Portola Valley $7.5637, up 67.93; Ravenswood City $8.4307, up 96.55;

Redwood City $6.5776, up 44.79; San Bruno Park $7.1451, down 10.31; San Carlos $6.5906, up 36.56; San Mateo City $6.6744, up 58.48; Woodside $6.5242, up 52.33;

Cabrillo Unified $6.6890, up 1.23; La Honda-Pescadero Unified $6.2152, up 9.14; South San Francisco Unified $6.1821, up 38.51.

Contracts Let on Road Jobs

Two north San Mateo County highway projects were among 11 contracts awarded recently by the State Department of Public Works for work in the Bay Area.

Freeman-Sondgroth Construction Co. of Mountain View was low bidder on both.

One was for $321,737.50 for widening of Skyline Boulevard from two to four lanes for a mile between the north end of College Drive in San Bruno and two-tenths-mile north of Westborough Boulevard in South San Francisco. A six-foot median and eight-foot shoulders will be provided.

Traffic signals and channelization will be modified at the Westborough-Sharp Park Road intersection with Skyline. This job is scheduled to be finished by late spring 1971.

The other contract was for $81,258.10 for construction of new northbound and southbound ramps on Junipero Serra freeway from one-tenth-mile south of Hickey Boulevard undercrossing and .2 mile south of the Collins Avenue undercrossing in Daly City.

Work should be completed in 50 days, the announcement said.

A Santa Cruz County contract was awarded to Holmes-Clair of Menlo Park for $338,895 for widening the Soquel C reekBridge on Coast Highway.

Girl Raped in S.S.F.

An 18-year-old San Bruno girl told South San Francisco police Friday that a man who had offered her a ride home instead drove to a lonely section of the city and raped her.

She described her attacker as a swarthy man wearing light striped pants, about six feet tall and driving a dark sedan.

The victim said she was walking along El Camino Real near Spruce Street in the rain when the man offered her a ride home.

Instead, he drove the young girl to a deserted area near South Linden Avenue, South San Francisco, and assaulted her.

She immediately reported the incident to police after being released about 11 p.m. police said.

No suspects have been arrested in connection with the case as yet, police said.

29 Apply for SSF Job

South San Francisco councilmen have extended the deadline on applications for the city manager post to November 16.

Acting City Manager Larry Ross told the councilmen 29 applications have been received. He said he anticipated stragglers.

Final Winner

David Reznick, South San Francisco, was the final daily cash prize winner of $25 in The Times' Classified Chuckles contest.

A total of $565 was awarded to 23 Times' readers during the recently concluded game featuring creativity with classified ads.

Lotus Dancers Highlight

The Lotus Dancers of San Francisco will highlight the South San Francisco Arts Guild African evening Saturday at 8 p.m. in the South San Francisco High School auditorium.

The company of 45 will depict the events in an African fairy tale. They will wear African costumes, and will be accompanied by a group of African drummers, who will also give a special demonstration.

The program will also feature poetry reading and an Afro-Modern style show.

Tickets for the event may be purchased from Arts Guild salesmen or at the door. Donations in the purchase of these tickets will be used partially toward the purchase of a bus for the Lotus Dancers to facilitate their tours in Northern California.

Daly City Depot Faces a Delay

The much heralded Daly City terminus station for the Bay Area Rapid Transit system will not be open in July, 1972, along with the rest of the line, it was disclosed Friday.

Although final design of the Knowles Avenue BART station was approved by the district Thursday, it was explained by the district's chief engineer, David G. Hammond, that construction is three to four months behind schedule.

Hammond noted in his report that a similar delay was experienced in construction of the Concord station.

Both delays resulted from "prolonged discussions" with local communities concerning the stations.

Daly City only recently gave the nod to BART for the station after hassling over location of roadways, station design and parking lot size for the past six years.

The Daly City station, to be built into a shelf on the sloping hillside, will cost some $5.3 million and is expected to go into operation in October, 1972.

Until Daly City is completed, BART trains will terminate their runs at the twenty-fourth and Mission Street stations, Hammond told the Visual Design Committee.

Some $72,000 of the over-all station costs are for landscaping and beautification around the station and parking lot.

Building Up in San Bruno

San Bruno monthly building report for October shows nearly a $900,000 valuation increase in building permits for that month over the same period last year.

In addition, the report shows more than a threefold increase in valuations for the first 10 months of this year over 1969.

A total of 44 permits for the month of October this year were valued at $969,263. In the same month in 1969 there were 33 permits valued at $88,488.

PROJECT CONCERN

Numerous area residents are expected to compete in the 22-mile Walk for Mankind from sun-up to sun-down November 14 in the Golden aGte Park-Lake Merceo areas of San Francisco. Sponsored by Project Concern, proceeds will benefit rural hospitals in Asia and the United States.

S.S.F. Rjects Use Permit

A use permit request of the South San Francisco Equipment and Merchandise Mart to open a second-hand store at 415 Grand Avenue has been denied by planning commissioners.

Denial was based on the fact the downtown area should be the urban center and a second-hand store doesn't belong in a downtown shopping area.

Commissioners also agreed to recommend to city councilmen that a tentative resolution of the California Regional Water Quality Control Board not be adopted.

This recommendation is based on the fact the resolution would "not be consistent with the best interest of South San Francisco." Commissioners see it as an attempt to extend authority over local planning.

A petition of the J. H. Snyder Company for the amendment of the General development plan of Westborough-West Park No. 3 was approved.

This request asked for the "redesignation" of several duplex units in the area. Instead of scattering the planned community duplexes, the desire is to locate all within one specific area to create small townhouses.

In other business the commissioners approved a variance request of Howard Stegman to construct a one-story addition to a two-story single-family dwelling at 2247 Kenry Way.

NORTHGATE CHAPTER of Hadassah will commemorate the Balfour Declaration with a book review of "The Beggar of Jerusalem," by Rabbi Herbert Morris of Temple Beth Israel-Judea. Meeting will be at home of Mrs. Muriel Berger, 260 Country Club Drive, San Francisco, according to Mrs. W. R. Bauer of Daly City (left) who has details. Not Reading Recall Mail, Says Griffith

A San Bruno Recall Committee leader's speculation that the object of its activity has been reading its mail was refuted today by the man in question, City Councilman Richard Griffith.

Griffith, who works as a postal clerk at the San Bruno post office, was the object of a written complaint by Lance Miller, treasurer of the San Bruno Recall Committee, after Griffith appeared at the door of a Committee volunteer to argue his case.

The committee is attempting to recall Griffith from his San Bruno City Council post.

Miller wrote a letter of protest to the San Bruno Postmaster, noting that Griffith showed up at the volunteer's front door one day last week at 8:30 a.m., to inform the volunteer that it was illegal to circulate a petition before November 10.

Miller said that the volunteer told Griffith she had not yet received a petition from the recall committee; Miller said Griffith then launched into a 20-minute dissertation on the appointment of a new city manager.

The only apparent way Griffith could have known who had volunteered to carry recall petitions was to have read the committee's mail at the post office, Miller wrote, and he asked for an investigation.

Griffith today responded that he works in another area of the post office and had not seen the mail involved.

He said that what happened was that Mrs. Urban Whitaker had told a friend, Mrs. Harold Gregory, that another friend, Mrs. William Bowdidge, had been contacted by the recall committee and had expressed a desire to hear the other side of the story.

College Youth To Conduct Church Rites

College-age youth will lead the 9:30 to 11 a.m. worship services Sunday at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377 87th Street, Daly City.

The three speakers will be Jack Redslob, Marilyn Mattson and Pam Eagleton.

Cathe Leech will sing a solo.

Presiding will be Greg Lum.

Others who will assist include Grant Lambert, Brian Mattson, Dawn Klevesahl, Dave Michel, James Tweedie and Aliene Coughlin.

The college age youth meet each Sunday at 7:30 at the church or a home as a discussion group, and, occasionally, for dinner. Various projects are undertaken in the church and in the community.

Most of the youth are involved in Sunday School teaching and singing in the choir.

The Rev. Herbert C. Tweedie is pastor.

Youth Rally In San Bruno On Saturday

Community youth rallies' second youth rally will be November 14 at 7:59 p.m. at Calvary Community Church, 270 West San Bruno Avenue, San Bruno.

The rally will feature Wayne Pyzer, who often speaks at high school assemblies on drugs and sex, and at youth rallies, retreats and camps.

He has been heard on his own radio broadcast "Decision for Destiny" since 1962.

The Brotherhood, a rock group comprised of 10 high school and college-age youths from Santa Cruz, will perform.

Pre-rally entertainment will be provided by Keith Harrison, drummer; and Mark Thallander, a pianist for the ABC radio network for the last two years and now a student of music in San Francisco.

Ox Mt. Dumpsite Road Completed

Dumping activities could start anytime at the Ox Mountain solid waste disposal site, according to a report submitted to the North County Council of Cities Thursday.

The San Mateo Scavenger Company, owners of the site, recently completed a road into the area and spent what were described as "considerable sums of money" on improving drainage in the area.

R. David Martin, Burlingame councilman and chairman of a three member NCCC committee studying the question of solid waste disposal for the past four months, submitted a report on current problems facing some county cities and how to deal with county-wide disposal of garbage.

Martin noted that while Menlo Park might supply a site for five years, the Ox Mountain operators had been issued a use permit that expires in 1985.

Local pickups and hauls to the dump site would be under the control of the cities. This would likely mean setting of pickup rates also.

Where San Mateo County disagrees with Martin's report is in the field of haul costs, county engineer Sid Cantwell pointed out.

Martin's committee had suggested a sliding scale of dumping charges be employed.

For example: the longer the haul to the dump site the lower the cost of dumping.

This would equalize the cities' dumping costs, the committee felt.

But Cantwell argued that the county felt the dump charges should be the same for all cities.

"Frankly, I don't see how you can do it (charge less for longer hauls)," Cantwell said.

Martin's committee, composed of Harlen Minshew (Pacifica) and Warren Steinkamp (SSF), was supported unanimously by other North County cities on the report and were instructed to draw up more detailed plans for solid waste disposal in the area.

Librarian Will Retire in San Bruno

Thelma Passo, who is celebrating her fifteenth anniversary as San Bruno city librarian, will retire early in 1971.

She made the announcement in releasing the 1969-70 annual report of the San Bruno Public Library.

Statistics during the 15-year period show that the total number of books in the library increased by 98.3 per cent.

This, however, only meant a book-per-capita increase of 7.9 per cent since the city's population increased by 128.7 per cent during this period.

While the book budget went up by 220 per cent, the number of books increased at a rate of 112 per cent per year, and circulation increased by 115.4 per cent. Registration for use of library materials also took a significant jump, up 220.7 per cent.

The total budget expense for the library in the 15 years increased by 298.3 per cent, while the library's receipts increased 361.7 per cent. The per capita expenditures by comparison increased 115.6 per cent.

The San Bruno Library opened its new building in 1955. It consisted of the main reading room, with children's services in what is now the magazine reading room. A children's wing was promised for the future, but Miss Passo thought it would not be during her lifetime.

The rapid growth of the city from 1955 to 1960 brought in young families with many children and soon the walls of the children's room were bulging. Requests for an adequate room for the children poured in daily. The council took action, and a new wing was opened in the fall of 1960.

Area Census Figures are Revised

Field work to "correct" its 1970 census figures in San Mateo County has been completed by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

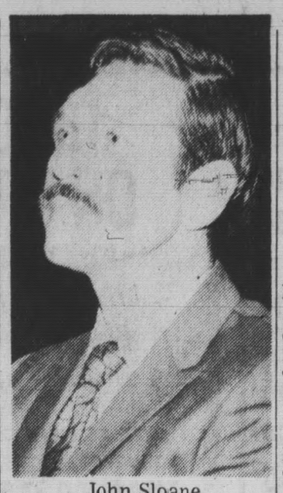
The new list came from the Census regional office in Los Angeles, to M. D. Boat, county urban planning economist, showing revisions in figures on seven San Mateo County cities where "major differences were evident" between original preliminary counts and what it was thought they should be.

The corrections:

Brisbane went from 2964 in the preliminary to 3033 in the revised count; Colma from 238 to 404; Daly City from 62,636 to 66,400; Half Moon Bay from 3761 to 4038; Portola Valley declined from 7288 to 4183; San Carlos gained from 22,787 to 25,674; and Woodside went from 4423 to 4687.

As a result of these there also were minor additions of 92 persons to Menlo Park, 26 to Redwood City, 37 to South San Francisco and nine to Atherton, Census Regional Director Leonard C. Isley said.

Isley said computers should help catch mistakes in the future and "eliminate the types of errors which were prevalent in this census."



John Sloane

Sloane Wins Jeff High's Board Slot

Two new high school trustees were elected to vacancies in the Jefferson and San Mateo Union High School Districts November

In the San Mateo Union high school district which covers San Mateo, Burlingame, Hillsborough, Foster City, Millbrae, and San Bruno, Dr. Joseph Craig, San Mateo pediatrician tallied 23,450 votes to finish ahead of Mrs. Ann Benner, a housewife, with 17,578, and Ike Tribble, a former San Mateo High School teacher, with 17,340.

John Sloane, 41-year-old director of San Francisco State College's International Relations Center, was elected to the Jefferson High School Board of Trustees covering Daly City and Pacifica.

A Pacifica resident, Sloane outdistanced Dr. John Connolly, the nearest contender, 9,909 to 7,700.

Both were far ahead of the two other challengers, Norman Baker, 3,330, and Maurice Tolson, 3,012, both of Daly City.

Pastor David Donnelly will speak on the topic, "Seven Walks in Ephesians."

Youth Fellowship Hour is at 6 p.m. Sundays, when Junior Astronauts, for Junior age boys and girls; Junior High and Senior High CYF meet and Pastor Donnelly conducts a class for youth and adults.

The women's Bible class will be held in the church social hall, November 17, from 10-11 a.m.

Bible study and Prayer hour will be at the church at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Pastor Donnelly is leading in a verse-by-verse study of the book of Romans.

During this hour, three Girl's Missionary Guild groups meet — Junior high for seventh to ninth graders; junior, for fourth to sixth graders; primary for second and third graders.

Westside Baptist Church is located at 390 Inverness Drive, Pacifica and is affiliated with the Baptist General Conference (formerly Swedish Baptist Conference.)

Carr Named To Run the SF Airport

James Kennedy Carr, 1420 Marlboro Road, Hillsborough, has been named director of San Francisco International Airport.

Carr, 56, will be paid $39,078 per year, the same as he received as general manager of San Francisco's public utilities.

His first act as director, was to name George M. Hansen as his deputy director for operations. Hansen has been general manager of the airport, but is slated for mandatory retirement next year.

Carr himself is no stranger to the airport. The city's Public Utilities Commission included airport activities until the new Airports Commission was created in August.

Understanding Seminar Topic

A widely diversified panel of students, parents, faculty and the public will exchange ideas at a "Bridge of Understanding" seminar November 18 at 8 p.m. in the Crestmoor High School cafeteria in San Bruno.

Former baseball player Len Gabrielson will be moderator.

The informal program is to explore how students and their community relate to each other, with a wide range of subjects to be covered. The public is invited and may question the speakers.

The panel includes Steve AuClair, student body president; Heidi Hills, a senior who recently received a National Merit Scholarship letter of commendation; Mrs. John Ford, Crestmoore Homeowners Association president; Mrs. Phebe Sandberg, girls physical education instructor, and Larry Mobley, past president of San Bruno Chamber of Commerce.

Gabrielson played ball for 11 years and saw major league service with the San Francisco Giants, Chicago Cubs, California Angels and Los Angeles Dodgers, retiring from the latter at the end of this season.

He has worked in domestic and international marketing and has been a stockbroker. Thought of generally as an athlete, his baseball scholarship to University of Southern California was changed to an academic scholarship after just one semester. He was graduated in 1961 after majoring in foreign trade and economics.

Two Rescued

Two men were rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter Wednesday when their 26-foot cabin cruiser blew up, caught fore and sank.

The men were plucked from a life raft shortly after the sinking off Brisbane between Candlestick and Sierra Points.

They were identified as Dale Campbell, 311 Seventh Street, Montara, and Bob Kennedy, 548 Diamond Street, South San Francisco. Neither was injured.

THE POST

PONTIAC MOTOR DIVISION'S 1971 T-37 combines a distinctive appearance with a low price. The T-37 is available as a two-door hardtop, two-door coupe and four-door sedan.

Pontiac Gains Seen

Pontiac Motor Division has unveiled its newly restyled 1971 lineup and announced it expected to sell 830,000 units during the coming model year.

F. James McDonald, a General Motors vice president and Pontiac's general manager pointed out that this would be a 24 per cent increase over the 670,000 1970 units the division would sell.

In touching on his sales forecast, McDonald said 830,000 cars would be 9.8 per cent of the anticipated domestic market of 8.5 million units.

Reviewing over the new Pontiacs, McDonald said:

"In general, we have a completely new regular series starting with the Catalina through the Bonneville . . . with a new car at the top of this line . . . the first Grand Ville"

Built on a 126-inch wheelbase, the luxury Grand Ville will be available as a two-door hardtop, four-door hardtop and as a convertible.

Joining the Grand Ville in the big car lineup are the Bonneville, Catalina and a new Catalina Brougham. The executive series is being discontinued.

"One of the most outstanding features of the 1971 regular series is the quietness in both ride and handling," McDonald commented.

Pontiac, he said, has achieved this by using the same acoustical ceiling structure introduced on the 1970 Firebird as well as by utilizing a new rocker construction.

New window seals and a new laminated tail pipe also add to a quieter ride.

A new disappearing tailgate is standard on the regular size station wagons. A power-operated rear window slides up and into the roof while the manually operated tailgate vanishes into the rear floor.

In commenting on the new Grand Prix, McDonald said it has an all new front and rear end and it is more of a "true classic" than ever before.

Pontiac's intermediate lineup, to be identified as the LeMans series, has new front end styling. Intermediate nameplates are the T-37, Le Mans, Le Mans Sport and GTO.

For 1971 Pontiac will offer 36 different models compared to 35 in the past model year.

"The new car . . . will be distinctively Pontiac with a split grille, featuring single headlamps and a distinctive bumper. It will be offered in two and four-door models on a 111-inch wheelbase. Overall length will be about 194 inches," he said.

McDonald also touched briefly on Pontiac's plans to bring out a compact next Spring:

Plymouth Restyles Popular Barracuda

Plymouth Barracuda, Chrysler - Plymouth Division's successful entry in the compact specialty market segment, sports a new front and rear treatment for the 1971 model year.

There are six Barracuda models in three series for 1971. The standard Barracuda has three models — a sports coupe, hardtop and convertible. The luxurious Gran Coupe is available as a hardtop and the performance 'Cuda comes in hardtop and convertible models.

The Barracuda sports coupe is an economy entry in the sports specialty market. Its base engine is a 125 horsepower, 198-cubic inch six.

Barracuda is built on a 108-inch wheelbase with an over-all length of 186.7 inches and a width of 74.7 inches. Over-all height is 50.8 inches.

A strong grille treatment, featuring dual headlamps, highlights the new front end appearance of the Barracuda. It is vertical in theme with six sections formed by bold vertical bars.

Eight engines are available in the Barracuda line, two six-cylinder power plants and six V-8's. All of the standard engines are capable of running on regular gasoline. The 198 cubic inch six is rated at 125 horsepower; the 225 six at 145. The 198 engine is the standard six in the Barracuda sports coupe while the 225 six is standard in the hardtop and convertible.

The 318 V-8, rated at 230 horsepower, is the standard V-8 in all but the 'Cuda performance series.

Two 383 cubic inch V-8's are available in two-barrel and four-barrel versions, both using regular gasoline. The two-barrel is rated at 275 horsepower; the four-barrel at 300.

Banff Once Banned Cars

In 1887, Banff Hot Springs reserve, enlarged to 260 eye-opening square miles, officially became Canada's first national park. Adjacent areas added later brought it to its present size. Until 1916, auto traffic was barred from the preserve.

Today, carloads of vacationers travel through this spectacular wildlife sanctuary and Jasper National Park just to the north. Many of them hear about prominent features of the regions through recently introduced auto tape tours.

BUICK SKYLARK for 1971 introduces new styling front and rear, with a horizontal grille design, larger taillights and more rugged bumpers.

Style, Engine Innovations Emphasized in Buick Line

Buick has introduced its 1971 line of 27 cars with dramatic styling changes, a new Centurion series, and engineering innovations.

All regular size cars (Electra 225, the new Centurion and LeSabre) — and the new Riviera feature a new design with curved window glass that is nearly flush with the outer surface of the body, thin windshield pillars, clean sculptured lines and greater body trun-under for easier entrance and exit.

Skylark and GS models also have been restyled with new bumpers, grilles and ornamentation. Bumpers on all cars are more rugged, with heavier mountings, and bumper guards are offered as an option on most models.

Lee N. Mays, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors, said, "Every line, every surface on all of our regular size cars is new, yet the overall styling theme retains many of the characteristics that are identified with the Buick product."

The Electra 225 is distinguished by a sculptured character line that runs the full length of the car, from the front of the hood to the tip of the rear fender. A similar line on the Centurion and LeSabre ends in a graceful arc near the end of the rear fender. Each series has its own distinctive grille and rear end treatment.

Ventiports, a Buick hallmark, are mounted on the hood on LeSabre and Electra.

The roof on all regular size cars and the Riviera features a new laminated construction consisting of an additional steel panel on the inside.

The new Centurion series is distinguished by its clean, tailored lines and luxurious interiors. The Centurion is available in three models, a four-door hardtop, a two-door hardtop coupe with a more formal roof design, and a convertible. The convertible features a new retractable top that permits a full-width rear seat.

Toyota Diversification Aimed at U.S. Motorists

Toyota Motor company features a diversified model line of motorcars for the U.S. small car market. Nine of these models are passenger cars, three are in the Toyota Land Cruiser line of 4-wheel drive recreational and utility vehicles, and, rounding out the series, is the Hi-Lux pickup truck.

The completely restyles 1971 Corolla features a full "new look" in its three models — 2-door sedan, 2-door coupe and 2-door station wagon.

The Corolla's lightweight 4 cylinder engine now develops 73 horsepower at 6,000 rpm and still delivers 28 miles-per-gallon economy. An improved two-barrel down-draft carburetor assures quick starts in all types of weather and driving conditions.

The new Corona 4-door sports sedan's power plant has been beefed up. The horsepower has been raised by 20 per cent to 108 at 5500 rpm by the installation of an overhead cam engine that produces better acceleration and a higher cruising speed, yet retaining the Corona's traditional 25 mpg economy of operation.

A floor-mounted 4-speed transmission is offered as standard equipment with a column-mounted 3-speed Toyoglide automatic available as an option.

Many Motorists

San Mateo County registrations of new private automobiles showed an eight per cent increase in 1969 over the previous year. With a third fewer residents than San Francisco, the county has some 10,000 more private cars.

NEW DODGE CHARGERS for 1971 have luxury-sports styling, a close-coupled 115-inch wheelbase and lower price level. Left to right are Charger 500, Charger S.E. and Charger Super Bee.

Dodge Splits Intermediate Designs

The intermediate offerings of Dodge for 1971 is split into two separate model lines in a move to offer uncompromised products, according to Robert B. McCurry, Dodge general manager.

Coronet and Charger, which in the past years have shared the Dodge intermediate segment of the market place, will now hold their own in two separate categories.

The Coronet will be produced in four-door sedans and station wagons only while the Charger will be built only in hardtop and coupe models.

In addition to the separate sheet metal offerings of the two cars, the size of each will vary.

The Coronet will ge built on a 118-inch wheelbase while the Charger will be on a 115-inch wheelbase. Both models had previously been on 117-inch wheelbases.

McCurry pointed out that both the Coronet and Charger are built on separate floor plans which has been the past determining factor for a design compromise between hardtop and sedan models.

"With our new product marketing approach for 1971," McCurry explained, "KWE McCurry explained, "We are able to give the sedan buyers all of the advantages of full sized car without trying to fudge the leg room and trunk room space into a hardtop floor plan."

There are six Charger models: Charger Coupe, Charger 500, Charger S.E., Charger, Super Bee and R-T.

The Coronet will be built in three models — a low-priced version called Coronet, the high-line Coronet Custom, and premium Coronet Brougham. There will be six-passenger station wagons throughout the line, Nine-passenger wagons will be offered on Coronet Custom and on a premium model called the Coronet Crestwood.

The basic Charger hardtop will be available with a variety of six and eight-cylinder engines. The Charger 500 and top-of-the-line Charger S.E. (Special Edition) will have only eight cylinder engines.

The Dodge Scat Pack will have two high performance versions of the Charger, the Super Bee and the R-T. Two special V-8's will be available as options — 440-Six Pack and 426 Hemi. All except these last two engines will operate on regular or low lead content fuel. A 440-four barrel V-8 is standard on R-T.

The High Road

Trail Ridge Road in Rocky Mountain National Park is the highest continuous automobile road in the United States. A special tape recorded tour now tells motorists what to look for — and at, as they approach the loftiest location along the route, an elevation of 12,103 feet, between Iceberg Lake and Fall River Pass.

Lower Level of Emission

All Pontiac Motor Division engines for 1971 have been redesigned to achieve the lowest possible emissions levels while engineered to improve both driveability and performance.

The complete line-up of seven engines, ranging from a 250 cubic-inch six-cylinder to a new 455 cubic-inch HO V-8, will operate on 91 octane low leaded regular fuel.

Pontiac's War on Pollution

Pontiac has two construction emission control programs underway at Detroit headquarters.

The first is a multi-million dollar vehicle emissions control and carburetor testing facility that will aid Pontiac engineers in their all-out battle against automotive air pollution. The other is a $25-million program to build a new electric foundry at the home plant to eliminate its industrial air pollution.

U.S. on Wheels

Although the United States has only six per cent of the world's population, it contains nearly half — or 49.5 per cent — of the world's motor vehicles, according to the American Automobile Association.

Revival of Tool Kits by Pinto

Two automobile tool kits — eminiscent of the days of the Model T — are available for the 971 Pinto, making its public debut in Ford dealerships.

The beginner's kit will consist f tools required for routine servicing of most components, while the more advanced kit — sold as an addition to the other kit — will take care of maintenance and repairs which can be serviced by a mechanic or an experienced amateur.

The kits can be ordered by mailing a coupon in the owner's manual.

The tool kits also can be used on other 1971 car and light truck lines, in addition to Pinto.

When the Model T was introduced in 1908, a tool kit was sold with it. It contained 11 items including four wrenches, pliers, screwdriver, two tire irons, tire pump, an oil can and a canvas tool roll.

Time to Paint (Volks)wagen

Volkswagen's future is going to be more colorful than ever this fall.

The 1971-model VWs come in a total of 19 different colors — a mixture of blues, tangerines, reds, greens, whites, yellows and beige. Black faded from VW's spectrum two years ago.

Why everyone's out to squash the Bug.

And why they can't.

Small cars are very big now.

And we made it happen. We asked people to think small and they did.

So now everybody's making small cars for the first time.

But we've been making small cars for 25 years.

So anybody who gets into the game now has to play by our rules.

We learned by our mistakes, and we made our mistakes years ago.

We don't make them anymore; we make Volkswagens. There are 12 million VW's all over the world, with about 4 million here in the U.S.A.

And, in a way, every VW we make is a little better than the one we made before.

Because we make about 5,000 changes every year that we don't even talk about. We simply do what needs doing to make the VW work better all the time. Not to look different all the time.

So what have we got to show for 25 years?

Only the most highly developed car on the road.

Take any old Volkswagen from any old year. It will still be airtight.

We never knew how to make it any other way, and we still don't. It still helps to open a window to close a door, even on an old one.

Take any new Volkswagen.

If there's a nick in the paint or on the chrome, somebody else put it there. Not us.

You won't find a jumble of wires under the dashboard. Just smooth, painted steel.

Under the hood? Shiny and smooth.

Around the engine? Shiny and smooth.

Even if you removed the door panel, you'd find it the same. Smooth and shiny.

If you saw the way we made them, you'd know why this is true.

One in eight VW employees is an inspector. And the head inspector reports to the head of the company, not to the head salesman.

Only one other car maker in the world does this; their prices start at $5,000.

Every wheel rim we turn out is inspected. 100% of them. Every brake drum. Every gas tank.

Every engine is run in before it becomes part of the car. And after.

Every part that has to do with safety is individually inspected and then individually stamped with the inspector's initials.

(We also have inspectors who inspect inspectors. And until a man does it right, we don't let him put his Hans on it.)

When a VW gets to the end of the line, an inspector checks to see that the engine, the electrical system, the brakes, and everything else that makes a VW stop and go puts out what we put in.

We make 5,000 cars a day; we check 5,000 cars a day.

Speaking of testing, we have 2 test tracks that are literally Hell on wheels. With hills and valleys and hairpin turns and cobblestone stretches that simply aren't found on American roads.

Every change we make (or don't make) lives or dies on one of our tracks.

By changing the way we change and testing the way we test, the Volkswagen we sell today is a whole other machine.

Over the years, we have practically doubled the VW's horsepower, but the engine should last even longer.

The luggage space is far greater. The car is quieter and rides better. You still get about 26 miles to a gallon.

We've added thoughtful little things like a door pocket for the driver. And a pop-up shield to protect the dashboard when you slide out the ashtray.

Happily, we can sell you a Beetle for a mere $1925*

And we give you interest on your money by not losing interest in your car.

We are the only car people in the world with Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System.

As part of our continuing madness, we give you 4 free top-to-bottom checkups when you buy a new VW.

You just maintain your car according to the Volkswagen maintenance schedule. If any factory part is defective in material or workmanship, any U.S. or Canadian VW dealer will repair or replace it, within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first. And he will do it free of charge.

In short, whatever Medi-car finds that's covered by our guarantee gets fixed free.

Every last VW dealer has this electronic Medi-car equipment, and if you already own a VW, you can get the checkups for just a few dollars.

On that topic, if you do own an older Volkswagen (even a '49), and need a part, don't worry. You can drive into any VW dealer's and he won't raise an eyebrow.

He will congratulate you and fix it.

Because most VW parts, changed though they may be, still fit most VWs.

We let other people make their cars bigger and smaller and taller and shorter.

We just go on making ours longer.

VOLKSWAGEN'S popular "bug" comes in two models for 1971 — the Super Beetle (foreground) and the Beetle.

Evolution of a Bug

Volkswagen's "bug" comes in two versions for 1971: the Beetle and the Super Beetle.

While the Beetle features added power, a flow-through ventilation system and a number of other improvements for 1971, the new three-inch-longer Super Beetle incorporates more engineering changes than any VW since the first "bugs" came to America 21 years ago.

Despite the slightly larger size of the new model and its many special features, there is no mistaking the family relationship of the two cars.

Both 1971 Beetles have a new 60-horsepower engine, up from last year's 57-hp. powerplant, which gives them a top and cruising speed of 81 miles per hour.

Engine modifications, a new carburetor and an evaporative control fuel system keep both Beetle powerplants within the allowable emission levels in the company's continued campaign against smog. Volkswagen's Wolfsburg factory — the company's home plant — was the first European test center accredited as an official California smog-control laboratory back in 1965.

Super Beetle extras include stronger bumpers on the 161.8-inch-long car (3.2 inches longer than the Beetle). The new bumpers are equipped with rubber inserts, especially useful in parking lot scrapes.

The Super Beetle also has a larger front trunk with luggage space nearly twice as large as before, a slightly larger gasoline tank with an 11-gallon capacity, a front track of 54.3 inches (2.7 inches wider than the Beetle) and a tighter turning circle of 31.5 feet.

Standard equipment includes a four-on-the-floor manual transmission. The Super Beetle is optionally available with VW's torque-converter Automatic Stick Shift transmission.

A Chevy for Every Life Style

Chevrolet observes its 60th anniversary in 1971 with the broadest coverage of the passenger car market in its history, according to John Z. DeLorean, general manager.

"Our new cars reflect Chevrolet's intention to keep pace with changing needs and preferences of American buyers throughout the 1970's," DeLorean said.

"From the most luxurious full-sized Chevrolet ever built to our new Vega 2300 economy car, we have a 1971 automobile to match each customer's life style. Each car line responds to today's strong consumer desire for maximum value, utility and quality."

The regular Chevrolet and full size Chevrolet station wagons have the biggest change of any year in recent history. Chevelle has a new front end treatment, Monte Carlo gets added distinction, Nova has a larger base engine and there are refinements for the popular Camaro and Corvette models.

Chevrolet offers three sizes of wagons, each with a different type of tailgate.

The full-size wagons introduce a "Glide-Away" disappearing tailgate. Mid-size wagons have dual-action gates and the new small Vega Kammback has a one-piece rear window-gate that swings up for maximum accessibility.

Each of the eight car lines has special emphasis upon emissions control. Every Chevrolet car in 1971 is equipped with an Evaporation Control System (ECS) which significantly reduces fuel vapor emissions.

In addition, Chevrolet for 1971 has developed a Combination Emission Control (CEC) valve mounted on the carburetor which reduces exhaust emissions.

All Chevrolet engines have been designed to operate efficiently on the new no-lead or low-lead gasolines.

Chevrolet in 1971 is publishing two horsepower ratings for each engine — the gross output without engine accessories and net or as-installed output of the same engine with accessories. Both horsepower ratings are shown on the accompanying specifications sheet.

The net or as-installed test method follows recommended procedure of the Society of Automotive Engineers and represents actual performance of an engine as installed in an automobile.

All Chevrolet car lines use a sealed side terminal battery in 1971. Because the electrical path is completely sealed, this battery eliminates corrosion at electrical terminals.

All Chevrolet engines in 1971 use slim-line spark plugs. This new plug design makes possible use of a hotter plug to provide increased resistance to fouling.

Every 1971 model has extensive safety features for occupant protection, accident prevention and anti-theft (see full list).

Chevrolet offers 15 colors for 1971 of which 13 are new. There are up to six two-tone color combinations, five vinyl top colors and two convertible top colors.

SUBSTANTIALLY MORE glass area, new styling and greater interior room are features of the full-sized 1971 Chevrolet wagons. Wheelbase is increased 6 inches and the new chassis is specially engineered to improve station wagon ride and handling.

SMALL AND SPORTY, Ford's new 1971 Pinto stresses sleek lines from hood to short deck fastback. Windshield slopes, and side windows are ventless.

Ford's New Range

Ford Division's 46 models in six car lines for 1971 range from the new Pinto and popular Maverick in the economy market to the restyled Ford and luxury-class Thunderbird.

According to John Naughton, Ford vice president and Ford Division general manager, "Our product line-up not only includes a new entry in a new size for us, but exciting changes in Mustang and Ford as well. This significant investment in new design and engineering changes should add real momentum to recent indications of an upturn in auto sales."

PINTO

Pinto reflects styling of its stablemates, Mustang and Maverick, while targeting on the size and economy characteristics of the leading imported cars it was created to challenge.

Smallest of the domestic sub-compacts, Pinto four inches longer, eight inches wider and seven inches lower than the leading import.

Like the imports, Ford stylists have created a design that is expected to remain unchanged in succeeding years.

Pinto is powered by a standard four-cylinder water-cooled engine with a displacement of 1,600 cubic centimeters (97.6 cubic inches) and a horsepower rating of 75. The front-mounted overhead valve engine, built by Ford of Britain, has been proven by years of use over millions of miles in the popular Ford Cortina and Capri cars. This engine has delivered more than 25 miles per gallon in simulated city-suburban driving.

As an option, Pinto offers a new 2000-cc (122 cubic inches) overhead camshaft engine designed specifically for Pinto. The powerplant delivers 100 horsepower. The overhead cam engine is built in an ultra-modern Ford engine plant in Germany.

MAVERICK

Stepping up a notch in size from Pinto is Maverick, the "Simple Machine" introduced by Ford Division in April, 1969. Now nearing the half million mark in sales — and climbing fast — Maverick in 1971 offers a four-door model, a Grabber sport sedan and a wider choice of options for family transportation.

TORINO

Torino has a revamped lineup of 14 models including two four-door sedans, six two-door hardtops, two four-door hardtops, three station wagons and a convertible for 1971.

"The new lineup gives across-the-board coverage of the intermediate market, and strengthens Torino's image of style, performance and economy," Naughton says. Styling has been refined but not changed.

A revised base Torino series and a new Torino 500 series have been added for 1971 while the Fairlane 500 and Falcon series are discontinued.

MUSTANG

"The 1971 Mustang is the most changed since the original model six years ago. It has developed a sports car feel and a European flavor that's sure to be an eye-catcher wherever it goes."

Mustang's wide choice of body styles includes hardtop, Sports-Roof and convertible.

Among the features most responsible for Mustang's contemporary appearance are the unique "flat roof" of the Sports-Roof models and the distinctive "tunnel backlite" of the hardtop. The thinner roof section, flush door handles and hidden windshield wipers contribute new sleekness.

FORD

Styling that gives the 1971 Ford more of the luxury car look highlights the 11 sedans and hardtops, seven station wagons and a convertible.

A sedan-hardtop has been added to the LTD and LTD Brougham series. The Sports-Roof body style has been discontinued and the convertible becomes an LTD model in '71, thereby eliminating the XL designation.

Exterior design treatment on the '71 Fords features smoother, sculptured lines that create a more formal overall look. Galaxie 500 models have been substantially upgraded to add to their luxury car appearance. New high and low series grilles, ventless side windows on all models, concealed windshield wipers, new taillight design and three new roof designs are the major exterior changes. Headlights on all models are exposed.

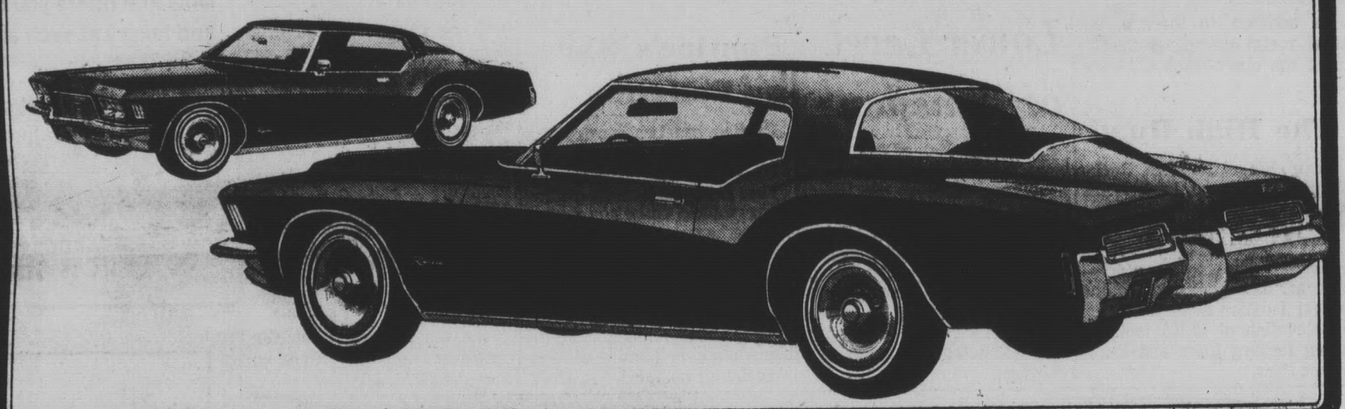
THUNDERBIRD

Thunderbird enters the 1971 marketplace with exterior and interior design refinements including a new, more formal roof line on the two-door Landau, and a new horizontal theme grille on all models. The more streamlined roofline of the hardtop and four-door complete the three-model lineup.

Highlighting the list of design changes is the new Thunderbird front end which features a revised grille and a chrome plated valance panel on the lower portion of the front bumper. Twenty exterior paint choices — plus four optional metallic-type "glamour" paint colors — are available.

The 1971 Buick Riviera.

We could have created a sensation with Riviera's styling alone. But we went much deeper. You can order Max-Trac for your Riviera. It's an exclusive new power control system with its own on-board computer. It gives you improved traction on snow, ice or in the rain. And, the 1971 Riviera comes with a 455-cubic-inch V-8 engine, 3-speed automatic transmission, hidden radio antenna, power steering, power front disc brakes, anti-theft equipment and Accu-Drive, Buick's exclusive suspension system that gives an almost unbelievable degree of new handling ease and response. All as standard equipment.

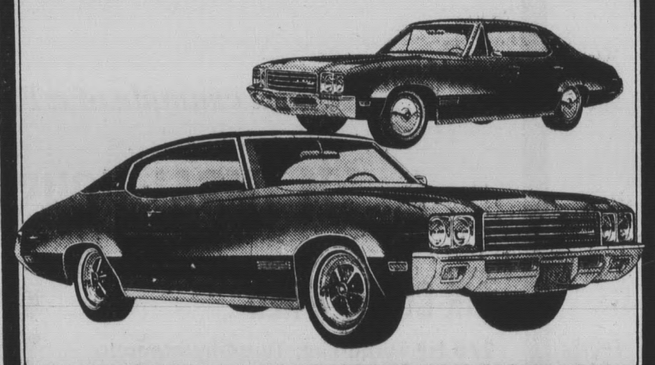


The 1971 Buick Centurion.

Our newest Buick, sleek with a look of motion. And underneath it all, deep-down improvements. Like an improved time-modulated choke control for quicker warm-ups and a more consistent fuel mixture, Full-Flo ventilation system, nickel-plated engine exhaust valves. There's generous room in every direction, side-guard beams for protection, and interior appointments that can be appreciated as much for their durability as for their comfort. And, a vinyl roof is standard equipment on the Centurion Formal Coupe.

The 1971 Buick Skylark Custom.

Look us over. You'll find a modest price, of course. But not modest trappings. You'll experience Buick's famous ride on Skylark's full-coil suspension. There's a V-8 engine with improvements like new, exclusive nickel-plated engine exhaust valves for smoother engine operation and longer valve life. There's also a new time-modulated carburetor choke to help give you a quicker warm-up and more consistent fuel mixture. Moreover, you'll get steel side-guard beams, tires belted with fiberglass, plus a host of other GM Safety Features. All standard equipment.



Why go to an auto show?
Most people go to an auto show to see new ideas and new designs.
For them, 1971 is a great year, especially at the Buick exhibit.
Stop by. See the new Buicks.
Ask as many questions as you want. Until there is only one question left.

Wouldn't you really rather have a 1971 Buick?

Fiat 850 Sport Racer

Fiat Geared for Diversity

Eight new models, led by the bigger engined sport series and the 124 Special Sedan and Wagon with automatic transmission, will be in Fiat showrooms this year.

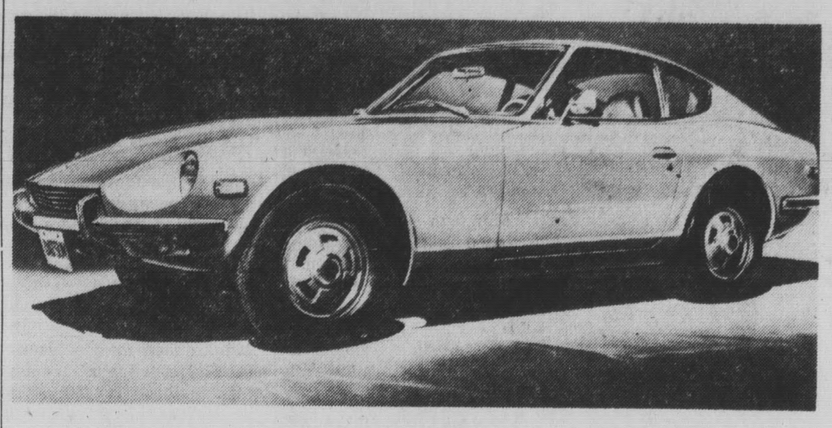
Fiat for 1971 brackets the small car class from the low priced 850 Sedan to the 124 Sport Coupe and the 124 Spider.

The 124 Special and the 124 Wagon are 159½ inches long, yet they seat five adults and still have room for luggage. Combined with an automatic transmission made by General Motors in Europe for Europe-sized power plants, they offer the ease of driving that most Americans prefer, yet get maximum efficiency from the rugged, durable 1438 cc valve-in-head engine up front.

For those who do not choose the optional 3-speed automatic, Fiat offers a 4-speed gear shift as standard equipment.

There are two members of the 850 series, the Spider and the Coupe, yhich have been in short supply ever since their introduction a year ago. They return with styling by Bertone and only detail changes.

New for 1971, the 124 Coupe and the 124 Spider, both have the more powerful 1608 cc double overhead camshaft engine and five-speed transmission as standard equipment. The 11.9 per cent increase in engine capacity manifests itself as higher top speed, better ability to pass quickly and improved anti-pollution performance.



HIGHLIGHTING DATSUN'S line for 1970 is an all new personalized two passenger fastback, the Datsun 240Z Sports. Powered by a new 2.4 liter (146 cu. in.) single overhead cam six-cylinder engine producing 150 hp and speeds up to 125 mph, its sleek, low lines are complemented by a roomy luxurious interior.

SIMCA 1204, the front-wheel-drive economy import marketed by the Chrysler-Plymouth Division, offers new features in 1971 including sales appeal of this versatile car.

C-D Units Win for Westmoor

Westmoor's frosh - soph Rams and Terra Nova tied Thursday in a crucial game deciding the league game champions. The score was 6-6.

The Rams scored in the second quarter after a blocked punt when they drove 40 yards down to Terra Nova's half yard line and scored on a drive by John Hart.

This score was 6-0 at halftime The Tiger defense stopped the Rams in the third quarter as Ram offense held the ball for only eight downs. Tigers took over and kept it the rest of the quarter and with third and 42 to go for first down Terra Nova completed the bomb and moved into scoring territory.

Minutes into the fourth quarter the Tigers scored on a pass to the halfback coming out of the backfield to deadlock the game.

Westmoor High school's C's fought back from a nin point deficit in the fourth quarter to defeat Oceana, 35-32.

Dave Fritz who led the scoring parade with 12 points, tanked three free throws in the overtime period to enable the Rams to squeeze past the Sharks.

Marching toward their second straight championship, the Westmoor Rams D's, crushed Oceana, 61-38. Senior Bob Fidler led the Rams with 17 points with rugged forward Rory Poblitz adding 10 points. Johnson of the Sharks shared the scoring honors as he threw in 17 points.

The C's and D's made a clean sweep on November 5, as they defeated the Jefferson Indians.

The D team won its fifth consecutive game by getting by the Indians, 33-22. This game kept the Rams in contention for the title with one game left. Dave Fritz scored 16 points.

THE POST'S SPORTS

Crestmoor Oozed Out by San Mateo's Bearcats

By JOHN HORGAN

As the season gets older, the yards get tougher for Kevin O'Dennell.

And Friday's game with Crestmoor may have seen the most difficult yardage of the Mid-Peninsula League season for the San Mateo wingback. Nothing came easy against the Falcons. Not even the victory.

The Bearcats, with O'Donnell cracking for 170 yards and one touchdown on 36 tries on a slime-covered 'Cat field, managed to ooze by Crestmoor, 20-18, on the strength of two placements by kicker Bob Quick.

O'Donnell's season statistics are now 1,113 yards on 175 carries. He has nine scores. And he is rated among prep football's statistical rushing elite in Northern California.

"I had no idea I was going to have this kind of year this time," the stumpy athlete said this week just prior to the Crestmoor game. "I'm not that quick but I can hit those holes pretty fast. I just try to follow the blockers. And I have a good line in front of me."

But all the 'Cats had their muddy hands full with the once-inpotent Falcons, a San Bruno-based outfit which has this year become a school to be reckoned with under the tutelage of young Johnny Browne.

With San Mateo nursing what seemed to be a safe 20-6 lead with less than six minutes to pla, Crestmoor came suddenly to life.

A 44-yard pass from quarterback Jim Jarvis to wide receiver Chuck Bommarito (the MPL's sprint champion) brought the visitors to within eight and, with 2:42 left to play, linebacker Steve Lorenzo picked off an errant pitchout from San Matoe's Robert Gomes (taking it away from O'Dennell in the process) and sloshed 17 yards for another tally. That made it, 20-18. Going for the two-point conversion for the tie, the Falcons tried a pass but it fell incomplete in the end zone muck.

San Mateo's touchdowns came in this order:

A 60-yard pass interception by linebacker Dale Curry; a 38-yard end run by O'Dennell; and, a 34-yard run by Keith Lax.

The Falcons' first TD occurred in the third period. That too was a pass from Jarvis to Bommarito. It covered 39 yards.

O'Donnell was keyed upon all afternoon by the Crestmoor defense. He lost yardage five times and, by the end of the game, he was barely able to stagger forward into the goo.

"Hillsdale had all four linedackers keying on Kevin," San Mateo Coach Buzz Williams said.

Crestmoor did all of that and more on Friday. And it almost paid off.

CSM Mermen Champs Again

That College of San Mateo today has sole possession of the 1970 Golden Gate Conference water polo crown is no surprise.

Following Wednesday's title tie clinching 5-4 victory at Foothill, the Bulldogs returned home Thursday to put away the league trophy with a 14-5 laugher over City College of San Francisco—which has never won a league game.

The unbeaten Bulldogs host third place San Jose CC in their final home and league game this Friday before returning to Foothill's pool November 20-21 for the Northern California tournament.

Sportscripts

There's three or four in baseball
Who are over the 40 age,
You read of their achievements
On many a sporting page
But football has a great, old man,
When needed he's always on hand,
Besides his important playing,
George Blanda is never Bland

We figure we had better get this column in before George Blanda goes ahead and does something rash, like setting another record and turning this single column bid into a two-part serial.

Two weeks ago we decided to do a column on Blanda and the remarkable list of records he's compiled. After a week of research we concluded that to list each one of the records separately would run us out of space.

If there were any question in our mind as to the propriety of this difficult editorial decision, it was disolved the next day when Blanda went and threw three touchdown passes against Pittsburg with Daryle Lamonica out injured, and added another record — the oldest man (43) to ever throw a touchdown pass in professional football (Which is academic, because from now on any pass Blanda throws, even if he tosses it into the stands, will mark him as the oldest man to ever . . . in professional football).

Then when George kicked that 48 yard field goal with three seconds remaining to tie Kansas City, he really panicked us, as we thought of the myriad of records THAT could break and the further research we'd have to do.

But, then, we realized that Lou Groza was kicking field goals until he was at least 45, and that Ben Agajanian was also well into his 40's and still bootin' 'em. Nonetheless, we decided to make the break and do the column, because trying to keep up with Blanda records is like running on a treadmill. You just never catch up. So don't save this column, because it will probably be obsolete a week from now.

If you haven't already guesses, Blanda at the conclusion of this season, will have tied Groza for the most seasons as an active player in professional football. This is George's 21st and there's no end in sight. What is especially remarkable about Blanda's record is that he's still engaged in contact. To the best of our knowledge, Groza quit playing the line at about 35. Every year they say Blanda will be put out to pasture and brought in from the range only to kick, and every year Oakland has hot shot kid QB's like Eldridge Dickey and Ken Stabler to back up their number one man, and every time Lamonica gets hurt, it's Blanda who comes in and throws three touchdown passes.

YOU CAN TALK ABOUT all the other durable athletes you want, but for our money, Blanda beats them all. Sure, Hoyt Wilhelm is 47 and still pitches every other day. But what's throwing a flutterball to two or three hitters every 48 hours compared with facing huge, charging forward walls — even if only once a month?

And Blanda hasn't done it all on quantity. There's always been quality in his work, too. He is ranked fifth statistically am the all-time passing greats, and only Groza has scored more points than him. He's led the AFL in passing once, in scoring once, was Player of the Year once, All-Pro twice, and was in four AFL All-Star games. He's led the AFL three times, and the NFL once in completed passes. He's led the AFL twice in yards gained by passing, and once in TD passes. He's led the AFL three times in conversions. He's been a winner, having been 1 oe NFL championship game, and six AFL title matches.

But now his records, which, as we've said, we decided not to itemize. But, as briefly as possible:

Blanda holds five "combined" NFL-AFL passing records and one kicking record.

In the AFL alone he holds or shares 12 kicking records, has three seconds bests and one third best. He has two longevity records, one scoring record, one second best and one third best scoring record. He has nine passing records and five second best passing records, and two third bests. He has four "negative" records, (having to do with interceptions). He even holds records for the most times catching his own pass (once) and the most times recovering his own fumbles.

Additionally, Blanda has two-All-Star game passing records and one second best passing record. In championship games he holds six passing records (including two dealing with interceptions), and two second best passing records. He holds six title game kicking records, and one second best. He has a scoring record and a second best longevity record, is tied for second in participating for winning teams, and holds two second best yards gained records.

There are probably a few others kicking around in the deep recesses of record books as old as Blanda, but frankly, we don't have the guts to look them up. What good would it do? George would only break them by next column, anyway.

WHILE WE'RE STILL, if only remotely, on that Oakland-KC game, our two-cents say it's ironic and wrong when a player can perpetrate a questionable play (notice we were careful not to say dirty?) the results of which are beneficial to his team.

We're referring, of course, to that controversial play in the last minute of the game when Len Dawson had bootlegged for an apparent first down which would have allowed the Chiefs to run out the clock, and was fallen on by Ben Davidson after the play was apparently dead. As you remember, the Chiefs' Otis Taylor slugged Davidson for his late tackle, and his penalty for unsportsmanlike conduct offset Davidson's personal foul, which cancelled out the play and set the ball back to its original line of scrimmage and back to third down.

Dawson didn't make it the second time around, K.C. had to give up the ball, and on the ensuing series, Blanda kicked his field goal to tie the game.

Explaining it all, an NFL official said that the call was correct, because the play had not been blown dead when Davidson hit Dawson, so the play was continuous. He added that the films seemed to indicate that Dawson hadn't been tackled, but had fallen over his own man, which is what Davidson had claimed, and which, if it's true, gives the final decision of offsetting penalties' credence.

Our point is that even though the play may still have been live, Davidson "speared" Dawson — that is, aimed his helmet right into Daswon's back. At least that's what the slow motion re-run looked like to us, and spearing under any circumstances is illegal, as far as we know. If it isn't, it's certainly more unsportsmanlike than what Taylor did to Davidson.

Dawson was down. All a guy Davidson's size would have had to do was stand over him and push him down if he tried to get up. Davidson started it, Oakland came out benefiting. We just don't think that a guy of Davidson's talent and heft needs to go around spearing 190 pound, 35 year old quarterbacks when they're sitting down.

MISCELLANY: Irony of the Year: When the 49ers released Tommy Davis, he was the leading lifetime active punter in the AFL with an average of 44.7 yards a boot.

John Brodie is ranked sixth in the all-time pro passing listings.

The Raiders, known for their long passing attack, ranked a distant second last year to Cincinnati in average yards gained per pass completion, 14.87 to 16.69.

In the AFL last year, not one team ran as often as it passed. Boston came closest, running 43.56 per cent of the time. Oakland ran least, going on the ground only 35.05 per cent of their plays.

Opponents completed only 38.9 per cent of their passes on Oakland last year — an AFL low.

El Camino Nears NPL Grid Crown

For the first time in the past five years, the El Camino High School football team is a bona fide contender for the North Peninsula League title.

"Dark-horse" is a term for years gone by now that the Colts are just two victories away from the 1970 NPL crown. Undefeated after Friday's 21-0 methodical win over Jefferson's Indians, the Colts face just one more huge task — crosstown rival South San Francisco, in this Friday's title clash.

In other NPL action Friday, Half Moon Bay wrung out a 14-6 victory over Serramonte while Westmoor blanked Terra Nova, 13-0.

Camino, except for understandable clumsiness in handling a wet football, was near perfect in white-washing Jefferson. In fact, until the last quarter when the subs were in, the Camino defense held the Indian rushing game to minus yardage and didn't give the Jeff aerial game enough time to even get set.

Halfback Al Spitzer, nursing a bruised hand, got the Colts going with a one-yard run in the second period. Just before intermission Rich Clarke took in a 29-yard pass from quarterback Dale Momii to settle the final issue. Spitzer lobbed an 18-yard option pass to Vince Howard in the third perod for the final score.

Camino's defense stopped Jeff's offense at just 56 yards and the Indians had just one self-administered first down. Three more came by penalty.

End Brad Kearns, who was converted to end from quarterback early this year, converted back yesterday and led the Westmoor Rams to win over the Tigers.

Kearns fired touchdown passes of 61 and 53 for the afternoon's only tallies. He hit end Bob McLennan in the first quarter on the 61-yarder and hit Jeff Orlich on a swing pass. Orlich stood motionless at the line after the snap, took the pass, faked one defender and raced the entire 53 yards to the goal alone.

Fullback Tom Price had the most productive running day of any Ram this season when he ran for 113 yards in 17 tries.

Serramonte did everything but score Friday in losing to the visiting Half Moon Bay Cougars. The Regents ran up 363 total offensive yards to HMB's 196 but dropped the wet ball five times to thwart scoring drives.

After Ron Beltramo had scored the lone Serramonte td on a four-yard run in the first period, HMB scoring two straight, the latter coming on a 25-yard pass from quarterback Dennis Avilla to halfback Jeff Yarian to get the victory.

Elliott Mark continued his sensational running for the Regents by totaling 154 yards and two receptions for 32 more yards.

SSF Trails Most of Way, Squeaks By Oceana, 13-6

About one month ago Oceana High School decided to change from a night game to an afternoon contest with the South San Francisco Warriors. Figuring the Warriors would be too powerful for the Pacifica crew, Oceana decided not to be embarrassed in front of a nighttime crowd at Clifford Field.

In the grey afternoon Friday, it was the Warriors who were almost embarassed — in fact, for three quarters, Oceana led over the swampy Clifford course, 6-0. Then the Warrior attack which moved easily between the 25-yard stripes but little further, somehow caught fire in the watery going and Ray DeJong's squad pulled out a 13-6 victory to remain undefeated in North Peninsula League play.

But it took a last minute touchdown pass from quarterback Bob Bachtold to halfback Hank Love to pull SSF up from an embarassing tie with the Oceana eleven — a team it has never lost to in NPL history.

The Sharks, who were outgained by SSF, 196-49, intotal offense took a 6-0 lead in the second period on Rich Summy's five-yard run. Two 15 yard penalties against SSF aided the Sharks' 54-yard drive midway through that second period.

SSF finally scored with eight minutes remaining when 10 straight running plays, capped by Bachtold's eight-yard keeper, covered 43 yards.

Oceana was driving for the winning touchdown when Jim Kellner intercepted a Desi Chavez pass on the 49 with only 1:30 left. Fullback Wayne Giardella got 17 yards on two rushes and a Shark penalty added another 15. After a short gainer by Bachtold, the junior thrower hit Love on a 16-yard scoring toss with just 56 seconds left, and the win streak was intact.

Nite Life Dinner Club 10th Anniversary Offer

Milt Harper, the owner of the Nite Life Dinner Club, is celebrating his Tenth Anniversary by offering the public, for the first time, a one-year membership for only $5. The regular price is $10. The Nite Life Dinner Club is the oldest established dinner club in California. Milt started with a dinner book with only 21 restaurants entitling the customer who had a Nite Life book to 21 free dinners. Today, they have grown to the extent that they now have over 200 establishments giving free dinners and discounts to Nite Life members. The membership books entitle the members to go to restaurants, theaters, sporting events, hotels and night clubs where they receive a free meal or a free admission with the purchase of one-of-like value. There are over 60 coupons which entitle the members to lodging in Lake Tahoe, skiing, golf, racing events, plus many events at the Cow Palace. The restaurants feel that by giving a free meal or a sizable discount, the Nite Life members will soon become regular patrons. So, naturally, they go out of their way to roll out the carpet and give the best service possible. This year, Nite Life is also offering a vacation certificate which entitles a Nite Life member to three days and two nights free lodging in Hawaii and Mexico at Class A hotels. Travel is also arranged by their affiliate travel agency. This is a great offer to the public and Bright Lights congratulates Nite Life on the terrific job of putting this book together. Beth Pederson, singer-guitarist, entertains in the Piccadilly Bar at the St. Francsi Hotel Tuesday through Saturday from 9 p.m. . . . The Shirt Tail in Palo Alto was the subject of a major story in a San Jose newspaper rotogravure section. The author praised all phases of the restaurant, from the decor of the sunken cocktail lounge to the Prime Ribs of Beef "most popular at $5.65." The author was amused by the name Shirt Tail, which was taken from an old California Gold Mine. He called the handsome restaurant "the crown jewel" of the Adrian Stickney restaurant chain. "What they do, they do well," is his summation . . . Table tips: The prime rib luncheon and dinner served at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel on Mondays and Wednesdays. The full course spread is just $2.50 (price is the same for both lunch and dinner). Entrees are changed daily, or choose from the a la carte menu . . . Foster's Farm-Fried Chicken House (located across from Hillsdale Shopping Center) is offering a "Bucket of Chicken" (serves five persons) for take home that's low-priced at $3.95. No thick crust on Foster's Farm-Fried Chicken — it's sprinkled lightly with spicy flour and cooked in a Henny Penny cooker which controls time and temperature.

Martha Raye On Stage Joins Finocchio Finale

A recent visit from fun-loving Martha Raye provided some unscheduled excitement at Finocchio's. Introduced by emcee Carrol Wallace, Martha hopped up on the stage for some tomfoolery with Carroll, and made a strong pitch for the GIs in Vietnam, her favorite subject. She then went backstage, borrowed a blonde wig and a frilly dress, and came on for the finale with Lucian, Jackie Philips, Elton Paris and Wallace . . . Clancy's owners, Flora and Andy Dillon, presented their organist Margie Brandon with the key to her new dressing room, which was built especially for her and even has her name on the door along with a star. The grand opening of Margie's dressing room called for an afternoon cocktail party. On hand to fill the closet with clothes was Ben Langella, manager of Zukor's, who supply Margie with the latest in fashions to model at the organ bar . . . Valet parking is just another luxury that diners may expect at Atherton's elegant Lord Fletcher Inn. This is just a sample of the service you will be pampered with when spending an evening here . . . The big cocktail fashion show last Sunday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco featured chic lounge wear and after-five fashions by famed designer Angelo Canzoneri. Gorgeous gals from Les Femmes Unique did the modeling.

Scott, the Tiny Bulldog Has Recruiters Raving Big

By JOHN HORGAN

It took Tom Scott a while to get moving.

He didn't play football at all in his freshman year at Serra.

He didn't play offense much until his senior year.

And, when he finally did get a chance to display his stuff for the powerful Padres in 1968, his talents were somewhat overshadowed by Serra's galaxy of other offensive stars. He was just another eager face on a team that was rated number one in Northern California.

However, for the last two years at the College of San Mateo, the Daly City redhead has been making up for lost time. With a vengeance.

The statistics speak for themselves: In 16 games for the local junior college, he has scored 23 touchdowns, caught 58 passes for 1,161 yards and carried the ball 116 times for 581 yards. This year, he has returned punts and kickoffs for a total of 586 yards. In all, in seven games so far in 1970, Scott has accounted for 1,404 yards handling the ball on offense and defense.

In a word, the muscular little guy (he's "grown" to 5-10 and 170 pounds) has found himself.

"At Serra I was playing with some guys who got a lot of publicity, guys like Jesse Freitas and Lynn Swann," Scott said last week as he prepared to meet San Jose City College Friday night in his next-to-last game as a Bulldog.

"All my relatives used to tell me that nobody knew much about me because of all those other guys."

People know all about Scott now.

As a matter of fact, most high school coaches and other knowledgeable sources realized the tiny fellow's worth in his senior year at Serra.

He was an all-Northern California fourth team selection in 1968 and made the North Shrine team in the summer of 1969. He was a standout in that game in Los Angeles and began to attract considerable state-wide attention as a wide-receiver and flanker after that tilt.

But it has been at CSM that the lithe athlete has made a real name for himself. He has virtually rewritten most of the school's scoring and receiving records and, in the process, he has become one of the most sought-after JC transfers in the Far West.

"Scott is a great one," Bill Dickey, the CSM head coach, said this week. "He is a superb receiver — as fine as there is on the coast, and that includes all colleges. And he can do a job as a running back too. He's a tough little guy. He hasn't been hurt all year and hasn't missed a workout all season."

Scott belied that statement somewhat by joshing that he runs out of fear. "I hate getting tackled. I don't want to get hurt. So I usually head for the outside. Not too many defensive players get a good shot at me. My instincts are probably too good. I guess you could say I fall down at just the right time."

Scott, who possesses 9.8 speed in the hundred, has a remarkable ability to find daylight even in the midst of the most tangled traffic. He has sure hands, superior moves and a gift for shiftiness that makes him difficult to handle in the open field.

According to him, the JC experience has given him the chance to hone his talents to a fine edge: "I've gotten some great experience here. I've played in more games here than I could have in some four-year school. And, I've had the good fortune to have a quarterback who can throw long in Wayne Willis (the ex-San Mateo High School signal-caller)."

What about the future — like next season?

Scott isn't sure where he'll be heading for the 1971 season but, as of tonight, three or four schools seem to have the inside track. In order, these would appear to be: San Diego State, Stanford, California and the University of Pacific.

Because of some weak performances in the classroom in his freshman year at CSM, he may have a problem getting into either Cal or Stanford. The latter school already has his old prep quarterback, Freitas, on its current roster. That fact has a certain appeal for Scott.

"I'd love to play with Jesse again. If I could get in there it would be great. But, right now, I'd have to say that San Diego is probably my main one."

The UOP scouts were so impressed with him when they saw him in Stockton against San Joaquin Delta in September that they offered him a full-ride after the game no questions asked. "They just came right in and said, you've got it if you want it," Tom explained.

Tom Scott is no longer playing in anybody's shadow. He's been moving too fast.

Runners from Oceana Loom as Favorites

The Oceana High School cross-country team concluded its dual meet season Wednesday afternoon with a double victory over a pair of North Peninsula League advesaries.

In turning back both Half Moon Bay and Jefferson, the Shark runners completed the NPL campaign with a perfect 7-0 record. The Sharks are favored to win the title in the NPL finals at Golden Gate Park tomorrow.

In last week's meet, Gary Lynch sloshed home first in a pouring rain with a 11:03 flat clocking over the two-mile Shark course. Number-one man Ernie Ribera was out nursing a muscle strain.

Montelongo Shares CSM Grid Honor

The College of San Mateo defensive standouts have been cited for their outstanding jobs in the Bulldogs' 21-21 tie with Golden Gate Conference pace-setter Chabot.

CSM coaches recognized linebackers Dan Montelongo from Westmoor High and Daly City as "Bulldog of the Week" and Steve Loveseth from Serra High and Millbrae as "best hitter" for their roles in interrupting the defending champions' league record 12-game win streak.

According to CSM defensive coach Steve Shafer, "Kontelongo did the best job at middle linebacker since I've been here.

The 6-2, 204-pound sophomore, making only his second start at the spot, grabbed a key interception in the fourth quarter to stop a Gladiator drive, recovered a fumble to set up CSM's first score, and got to the quarterback during his six unassisted and four assisted tackles.

Montelongo had been CSM's swing man in the defensive lineup, starting at strong side tackle and strong linebacker earlier in the season.

Montelongo and Loveseth served as co-captains Friday night when College of San Mateo visited San Jose CC in a Golden Gate Conference battle.

CSM will be on the road for its final game November 14 at Merritt (Oakland Technical High School), with a 1 o'clock kickoff.

Bulldog Harriers Take Title

College of San Mateo continues to dominate the Golden Gate Conference cinder paths.

The Bulldogs literally waltzed to their fifth cross country title in the league's nine-year history by rolling up a perfect 15-50 score against host Laney College.

San Mateo now has a 6-0 record but will have to defeat second-place Diablo Valley (5-1) in a final duel Monday to avoid sharing the crown with the Vikings.

A trio of freshmen paced the Bulldogs over the tough four-mile Joaquin Miller Park course in Oakland on Friday, as they swept the first nine places. Randy Lawson from San Carlos led the way in 25:11, followed by ex-Sequoia runner Jose Cortez (25:50) and Serra grad Vic Massa (25:51).

CSM Coach Bob Rush told his runners to take it easy because of the rough upcoming schedule and they took him at his word. "They ran the first part of the race in a group, singing and almost dancing around," he noted.

College of San Mateo 15, Laney 50
Lawson (CSM) 25:11; Cortez (CSM) 25:50; Massa (CSM) 25:51; Best (CSM) 26:28; Smith (CSM) 26:31; Gruening (CSM) 26:34; Robertson (CSM) 26:36; Matze (CSM) 26:39; Nolan (CSM) 26:45; Stone (Laney) 27:16.

Westmoor High Cross Country Team Triumphs

Westmoor High School's Cross Country team toppled their opponents, South San Francisco and Crestmoor in three out of four races, Wednesday, November 4 at Westmoor.

Rain made the run difficult but frosh, soph-frosh, and varsity teams won.

The Frosh and Soph teams ran a combined race, with Johnny Wilson, Rich Mazza, Jim Katapodis, Jim Calloway, and Harry Richardson helping to wrap up Westmoor's victory. Other Freshmen and Soph runners were following right behind their leaders to complete Westmoor's win.

Varsity runners Brian Darcy, and Joaquin Maria took first and second place respectively, with Jeff Krow finishing in fourth place. Westmoor had only two runners in the Junior varsity race, Jim Liston and Jim Galvan.

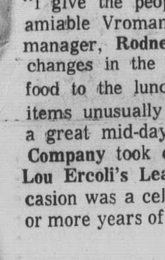
World Travelers Open San Mateo Restaurant

European home cooking is now being offered at the B & U, a quaint restaurant delicatessen which opened last week on Palm Avenue in San Mateo. The proprietors of this new establishment which features unusual dishes (many of which are unfamiliar to us), are Vladimir Bilgrey and Alexandre Utochkin, whose restaurant experiences have taken them to such far away places as China, Israel and Brazil. The soups are absolutely delicious—and include Borsch, Matzo Ball, Barley and Rassolnik (kidney soup). There is a variation of meats, chicken, fish, sandwiches and appetizers (from Red Caviar to Gefilte Fish). Yes, you may even order Proshki (Russian meat pie). Everything at the B & U is home cooked, and "U and I" can be grateful that these tasty dishes are available to us to eat-in or take-out. Both luncheon and dinner is served . . . Bruno Fava gave a whoppen big Fourth Anniversary party at his Third Avenue Burno's restaurant, Wednesday eve, and a big crowd turned out for the yearly event. Bruno and his charming wife worked untiringly to prepare the feast which included almost every Italian dish in the book. Polenta, Chicken and Italian sausage topped the list of palate pleasers.



Rudy Isch Regarded As A Premier Chef

Even among his fellow peers, the El Rancho's Rudy Isch is regarded as one of the premier chefs in the food industry. Rudy has been in charge of the El Rancho's kitchen for many years, and his Continental dishes are just as palate pleasing now as they were when he first started. He considers prime rib to be one of his specialties . . . The latest feature to be introduced at the Sinaloa cantina by new owner Bill Vroman is Sunday evening dancing from 8 p.m. to the music of Carlos and Emerson. Bill feels that dancing is still an intricate part of a night club-restaurant's make-up, and in no way is he turning his back on established traditions. "I give the people what they want," says the amiable Vroman . . . The Oyster Shell's new manager, Rodney Bourne, has made several changes in the Redwood City restaurant. First, he added Italian food to the luncheon and dinner menus, then priced the various items unusually low. A lunch time addition is the Martini Burger, a great mid-day draw in the local area. . . San Bruno's Dupont Company took over one of the private banquet rooms at Joe and Lou Ercoli's Leaning Tower a recent Saturday night. The occasion was a celebration for all company employees who had 25 or more years of continuous service.

Park Avenue Tours To Lake Tahoe, South Shore

Rain, snow or sunshine, Park Avenue Tours continues to transport passengers to South Shore, Lake Tahoe, Nevada, via Greyhound Bus. Generous bonus refunds for overnighters (one or two evenings), plus special eight-hour Turnabout trips with daily Greyhound departures from the Valley and Bay Area. There is also a bonus refund available at Barney's and the South Tahoe Nugget for those who prefer to drive up. Park Avenue Tours arranges charters anywhere, anytime and for any place . . . Lucien Sabella, "skipper" of A. Sabella's restaurant at Fisherman's Wharf, has added a new Jaquar to his fleet of autos. He took a spin to Lake Tahoe last weekend and came back with raves aplenty for the "Jag's" performance . . . Had a Tuesday morning appointment with Nick Gust, the Pacifica restaurateur, but the meeting was short and sweet—a bus was standing by to take the personable Nick and a jovial crowd to Bay Meadows for "Pacifica Day at the Races." Nick, owner of three outstanding restaurants in Rockaway Beach (The Moonraker, Papagayo Room and Nick's), is now attending all Nevada golf tourneys—the most recent being the Sahara. He also expects a personal invitation from "Bing" to the Crosby Tournament. Who knows, Mr. Mayor, it might happen.

"WHERE DIDJA SAY you were for the past three weeks?"

"All over the Orient — mostly Japan."

"Well, I know they told you to get out of town, but that's ridiculous."

And, so it's been, ever since we stepped off our jet at International Airport last Sunday at 4:30 p.m. The hours before we took off.

"All over the Orient — mostly Japan."

"Well, I know they told you to get out of town, but that's ridiculous."

And so it's been, ever since we stepped off our jet at International Airport last Sunday at 4:30 p.m. The only reason we mentioned the day and time is because we took off from Tokyo aboard a CP Air DC 8 'stretch jet' at 8:30 p.m. SUNDAY. In other words we landed hours before we took off.

Our bird landed in Vancouver in less than eight hours after leaving the wet runway in the World's Largest (and dirtiest) city, Tokyo, and that's when the fun REALLY began.

With a name like this humble (and overworked) columnist it pays to flash a U.S. passport everywhere in Canada these days. After telling the stern looking Mountie (who didn't even come close to looking like Nelson Eddy) that I merely wanted to get back to Daly City and I had no interest whatever in heading to Montreal, that I had no relatives in Quebec, and I couldn't care less about their domestic problems because I was beginning to have my own with my wife, he smiled and let us INTO the terminal building.

Getting out and onto the plane for San Francisco was another story which I am not prepared to go into at this time. Suffice it to say for the first time in my life I was actually happy to see a U.S. Customs inspector.

MEANWHILE, THE ROTARY CLUB of Daly City will have the pleasure (we hope) of seeing and hearing about this Oriental Fiasco as told by Yours truly and shown by attorney Paul Hupf today. Paul, who thinks Taipei is "Tijuana with rickshas," snapped some 300 slides during his sojourn.

This will be the only "X" rated color slide show in the history of the club and mayor Bud Lycett has recommended that Rotarians intending to attend be accompanied by an adult.

DID YOU ALL catch that environmental display at Serramonte Shopping Center — the one that had the display about pollution with a nice picture of Daly City smack dab in the middle of the show. Daly City and environmental pollution? My, my.

BIG RACE IN PACIFICA for Chief of Police between captain Al Tebaldi and Otto Saltenberger. Both good men. But people in the know are kinda leaning toward Otto because of his well-rounded training in this field.

WASN'T THAT RECENT resolution passed by the Daly City council commending a certain local publication interesting? Especially when the paper BARELY endorsed one of the three recent winners in the council race? Of course the twice weekly throwaway DID endorse a friend of a friend of a . . . well you're getting the picture.

AND D.C. CITY PLANNER John Walker thinks that Outer Limits cesspool on Geneva is within its "legal" rights to operate. Further, this columnist is getting too excited about nothing, according to that same planner. You call that stuff "art" and I'll call it what I want.

THE MEAT WAS TENDER but the waitress was pretty tough up at Bruno Scatena's new "Meat Block" restaurant (nee International Joe's) the other p.m. at the North County Council of Cities meet. This overworked student of journalism asked for a dab of horseradish for his roast beef and almost got launched with a wine bottle after being brow beaten by a waitress. You want the name? Just ask.

AT THE SAME MEET both San Bruno and South City had their full boards in evidence. Afraid to let one another out of their sight?

AND WHEN D.C. councilman Frank Pacelli remarked the food was lousy at the recent League of California Cities meet in San Diego because "it was catered by Republicans," councilman Louis Papan responded: "The democrats felt ill at ease because they're not used to eating off tables."

THE WESTLAKE MERCHANTS' sixth annual big game night dinner dance is again slated for Saturday November 21 at Millbrae's T-Bolt Hotel with the big horn of Sal Carson supplying the sounds and pretty (and talented) Sylvia Gaylord making with the locals. Always a great affair, Gene Perry (Westalke Prman) tells this year will be no exception. Sorry, folks, by invitation only.

BUT WASN'T THAT a goof? The D.C.-Colma Chamber scheduling their Installation Night at the Olympic Club on the same night? Same thing almost happened three years ago but an alert officer of the club caught it. Too late this year and localites are having a heck of a time chosing between the two.

SOUTH CITY has announced receipt of 29 applications for the position of City Manager. When acting City Manager Larry Ross handed copies of a list of applicants to the councilmen, Mayor Patrick Ahern said it would be best to keep them secret — he didn't want the council to have the list so names of applicants would get out and possibly jeopardize their present positions.

One applicant, however, is making no secret that he is a candidate, and, for that matter, probably would make the best city manager — the acting city-manager Larry Ross . . . he knows the city, he knows the people, he's sharp, and dedicated . . . putting him in the top slot would be a wise move, and would save the city lots of trouble, money, and maybe another San Bruno-type appointment? (You're welcome, Larry).

Addict Lives for Next Heroin Shot

By GEORGE GOLDING

AL HAS BEEN a heroin addict for 13 years.

He is aware that his life has been lost for those years, and he wants to quit. Unless he can get a new kind of "medicine," called methadone, he figures he'll never be able to.

Unexplainably, Al now "overdoses." His last three shots of heroin knocked him cold, which never happened before. He's a little scared by that. He also finds it difficult to steal enough to support a $60 per day habit.

But, quitting heroin is not as easy as quitting tobacco, which millions of people have found impossible.

For 13 Years...

Al started out when he was 17, a high school youngster in San Francisco's Mission District.

Let's not pretend he was an angel. He and a couple of pals had been selling marijuana for about three years. One of the pals got some heroin and together they tried it.

For six months or so, he didn't take another shot. Then, he began to "shoot up" every once in a while, which became once a week, then once a day. Even at $20 a pop, the habit grew to two and three shots each day.

Every day, seven days a week, for 13 years, Al has been living for the next shot of heroin. With that kind of habit, you don't work steady, you steal.

Al has been in and out of jails and prisons and mental institutions.

He has had the complete "cold turkey" withdrawals and the "cures" that don't cure.

Like the true addict he is, Al would rather not quit heroin.

"I'd stay on heroin if I could, man it's groovy, it's the best," he says.

"Methadone does the same thing for you as heroin, only without the ups and downs. It keeps you even."

A Synthetic

Methadone is a synthetic opiate which has been around for several years. It produces some of the effects of heroin and other drugs, but not all. There are no highs, no lows, no constantly increasing addiction.

Further, it can be given in such doses that it "blocks" the effect of heroin.

"You'd have to take $200 worth of heroin to even feel it," after taking methadone, says Al. "No one is going to do that."

Because methadone is an opiate, even a synthetic one, it is strictly regulated by federal laws. It has not been available except to a few experimental clinics.

Heroin, however, is available.

Al says he can get all he could pay for, on the Peninsula, or in San Francisco, if he had the cash.

"It's not a credit business," he says, "strictly cash."

He says "pushers" usually sell only to their friends, or to people they have had enough experience with to trust.

Al also says most "pushers" are users, a concept denied by some crime experts and most crime writers.

He says the "pushers" usually only sell enough to finance their own habit, and do not "push" drugs to non-users.

Yet, Al says he is deeply bothered by the increasing use of drugs by young people. He is aware of his own wasted life, and wants to help others not to waste their own.

"If they don't stop it," he says, "they're going to lose a whole generation.

"They've got to stop.

"Let the kids know the real stuff. Show them real-life pictures of users, and don't lie to them. You can't lie to them."

Al says, such a program of honesty should start early in the schools, perhaps as early as kindergarten.

He says he would be willing to speak to young people himself, about the dangers of drugs.

"I don't think anybody who hasn't been through it should preach to others," he says.

He has less confidence in the routine of psychiatric help available for narcotics users in San Mateo County, with its welfare red tape, its mental health clinics.

"Psychiatry is no help. Maybe, after you're cured, it might help. But you don't get cured. They offer pain-killers, for a short time, days, to help you through withdrawal. That gets you over the worst, but it doesn't get rid of the habit, the need."

Most of the "services," for drug users, he says, are run by non-experts.

"I've been to all of them, they just cross-reference you.

"When the kids come to these outfits for help, they need help right now, this minute. They don't need a waiting list, or a referral, they need help.

For such addicts as Al, some relief may be seen dimly on the horizon.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has signed laws created during the past session of the state legislature, which will allow methadone to be used in "maintenance" treatment programs.

San Mateo County is preparing to start such a clinic, when the laws become effective and financing is available.

Dr. John Vischer, deputy director of the county's mental health programs, speaks of "possibly opening a center for methadone maintenance, within this coming year."

Dr. Vischer suggests that progress in adopting the methadone maintenance system of treating drug addicts has been slow, because "doctors don't like to treat people unless they can be cured."

Doesn't Cure

Methadone doesn't cure anyone, and legislators are aware of this, as well as the doctors. They, too, have been reluctant to approve laws making possible the continuance of a habit, especially a habit self-caused.

Unfortunately, for the person who already has a habit, there is no cure.

"They (the legislators) want us to take the addicts off heroin permanently," says Dr. Vischer, "and we don't have any techniques to do that."

Until the new methadone maintenance programs become effective, the alternatives for addicts are few: commit oneself to Agnew State hospital, or try to get into one of the programs in San Francisco.

Dr. Vischer counters, a bit bitterly, that "most addicts don't want to get off heroin.

"What they want is to reduce the expense of the habit, so they can steal enough to support it."

For this purpose, he says, methadone can be bought "on the streets," like any other illegal narcotic.

Not Available

Al didn't seem to think so. He said it was not available, except through the clinics.

One of the clinics is in San Francisco, another in San Jose, one in Tulare, one at University of California at Irvine, one in Berkeley, one in Oakland, one in Alameda. Some of these are non-operative projects, according to doctors, others have been operating for two years.

Wherever there is an operating clinic, it has long waiting lists of subjects.

Police say the Peninsula is a common target for San Francisco burglars who raid apartment houses for television sets and hi-fi equipment to peddle in the city and support heroin habits.

For Al, that makes no sense.

"I don't like to steal down here," he says.

Al had kept himself almost "clean" for days. He was working steadily, and breaking the $60-a-day habit on his own, not quite "cold turkey," but buying only when he could no longer tolerate the agonies of withdrawal.

He knows he cannot conquer heroin on his own. His fondest hope is to get methadone maintenance treatment, so he can "be normal."

Permissive Act

The incident 2 weeks ago where an American flag was found to have been used as a bulletin board in the student government office at Skyline College has many disturbing aspects.

Displaying the flag upside down and using it in such a manner was an offense against the flag, symbol of the very freedom that permits students and others to protest when they disagree with the establishment.

Such an action by the Skyline students is self-destructive. If students were truly concerned about changing the establishment they would not destroy the keystone of change — the educational institution. The failure of the college district tax override in the September election was, in part, due to reaction to student unrest and so-called educational permissiveness. The flag incident will not help the tax issue the next time around.

The flag was in the student office, upside down, for two months before the administration acted to remove it. The action for removal was left to the student government.

However, the student government was unable to remove the flag because its president vetoed its action for removal and it was unable to override the veto. Only 175 of 2,000 Skyline students voted in the student government election last May. The radical students are a minority. If most students disagree with the radical philosophy, they can demonstrate their views by voting in the campus elections. Such apathy is unforgivable. The silent majority must take equal blame for the flag incident, along with the perpetrators.

The college district should, in our opinion, have the tax override it seeks, but inexcusable permissiveness by the college administration such as we have seen in the Skyline College flag incident is bound to alienate voters who otherwise are favorable to the college.

'... Demanding Liberation'

SAMUEL CHANDLER

Daly City Librarian

"GONE ALL GONE is gentle messageless humor," and in its place are the words of "sullen young men and furious young ladies demanding liberation."

To illustrate, picture for yourself these cartoons that have appeared in "Evergreen Review." A mouse with long hair and a beard wraps his arms around a gigantic cat and whispers, "Make love, not war."

In another, a teareyed little boy stands before the flag shouting a modern pledge of allegiance:

"I pledge a lesion to the flag of the almighty state of America and to the public of witches hands. Damnation inadmissable with liberty and justice for those powerful enough to grab it."

In yet another, an elephant that seems strangely shaped like a map of the United States allows a workman to sweep around him and under him until he reaches a special spot then the elephant lifts his tail and covers the workman.

THE STATE OF AMERICAN HUMOR was the subject of a conference at Santa Barbara's Center For The Study of Democratic Institutions. Several of the men who attended observed that American humor has been subverted to something miscalled a revolution. "Revolution isn't funny," said Professor Milton Mayer. "Lenin is a purest pain — and counter revolution of declining expectations isn't funny."

Professor Mayer observed that many people are preoccupied with a drive for power. Said he, "It is not only power that is never funny, but the struggle for power, the struggle to increase, and the moral struggle to hold on to it," is not funny. "Whoever wants power wants trouble. Whoever has power has trouble. Trouble isn't funny."

Neither was Professor Mayer and the other delegates to the convention. They agreed that American humor has become a business of assembly-line jokes on television.

It was noted by Steve Allen, however, that television has given the comedian a growing climate of freedom. TV-humor, he stated allows off-color jokes and social commentary and satire and a preoccupation with the political left.

This kink of humor is loathed by a counterforce that produces an "aimiable, traditional sort of folk humor" as found in the "Beverly Hillbillies," "Mayberry R.F.D." and "Green Acres," which do not "tresspass upon ancient verities or question middleclass American prejudices."

THE DELEGATES at the Santa Barbara conference agreed that American humor is in a revolutionary period in which no one knows exactly what is funny or even if an item will be funny to one group but not to another.

Allen suggested that to understand the present day American humor it is necessary to consider it in relation to the increased demands of the "young, the alienated, he black and the rebellious for more freedom." He stated that all literary matters must be weighed by an understanding that people are puzzled over what freedom means in the mouths of others.

According to Richard Buffum of "The Los Angeles Times," the humorists at the conference yearned for a common end.

"For them, it was the emergence of a class of great humorists, who reflecting the era, would reconcile us, instead of divide us, and irradiate us with enjoyment and compassionate understanding of our humanity. They yearned for Americans to laugh together again as a unified, free people."

To this end I offer one suggestion: Make a trip to the public library to the 817 section where the work of the great funnymen of the past and the men of the past and the present may be found.

Costs, Law and Order

JAMES HALLEY

Post-Times Columnist

Every two years, the roar and furor of partisan politics rises to a screeching cacophony, to quiet down on election day and commence rebuilding to the next crescendo two years hence. Each two year turn finds the pieces in new and different positions, somewhat like a giant kaleidoscope.

No man can predict the combinations of candidates, people and issues that will arise in future campaigns. Even so, some overall movement of issues can be discerned, and in watching this movement, we sense history in the making. The major issues are:

1. Cost of Government. This has been, is and always will be grist for the political mill. Ever since the day Genghis Khan first captured a stray pig, the governed have complained about the cost of their government. Sometimes this issue is put in a very attractive package, but its value tends to depreciate because of the constantly rising overall cost of government and because of the ambivalence of the people who want programs but don't want to pay for them.

2. The war. The Vietnam war has been an issue for some years, but was largely neutralized during the last campaign. President Nixon, in following an inexorable and steady program of withdrawal and Vietnamization, reduced the importance of this issue in the 1970 election.

3. Law and Order. The condition of our campuses, streets, cities and public gatherings constitutes a national emergency. Republicans picked up this issue in 1964 and were viewed as dangerous paranoids. But by 1966, the issue had caught fire, and in 1968, the law and order issue was paramount.

The reaction of Democrats was unbelievably slow. Some of the more perceptive, (such as Bobby Kennedy in his 1968 campaign in California), saw the importance of the issue and spoke out. But largely, it took Democrats over five years to join the fray fully.

This year, the magic was performed through the offices of Larry O'Brien, Democratic National Chairman. Suddenly Democrats were also in favor of law and order, and Republican national chairman Rogers Morton wryly commented that a bunch of new deputy sheriffs had arrived. Whatever the case, Democrats responded to the dialogue on law and order and partially immobilized the issue.

4. The economy showed again the low tolerance of the American public for any substantial unemployment. President Nixon, in changing the economy from a war to a peacetime one, and in trying to effectively deal with the cost of government, has probably headed off on a sound, long-term track. But the figures on employment and cost of living, didn't turn in time for the election. In the last week of the campaign, O'Brien, George Meany, Speaker McCormack, Senator Muskie, and so on and on, emphasized this issue without any real response from Republicans.

The result was really a two issue campaign, law and order, which the Democrats had partially neutralized, and the economy which rose late and was discussed mainly by Democrats.

Looking into the cloudy crystal ball, one sees the next campaign this way: cost of government won't be much of an issue because Republicans always talk a lot about cost of government, and this is hard to do when Republicans are "in." The war issue will depend upon the President's continuing success in Vietnam. If we are out and it's over, it will be a big plus for President Nixon. If we are not out and it isn't over, it will be a menacing issue against Republicans.

Whether law and order will be an issue again is entirely up to Democrats. They are now in position to join a bipartisan attack on the problem. But if, by any chance, Democrats dally with the mistaken idea that liberalism and lawlessness are somehow equivalent, they will be in serious difficulty on this issue. Republicans, in turn, must be careful and propose sound and sensible programs and avoid overreacting.

The economy is either going to get better or it is not. If it doesn't, Republicans could only be saved by some supervening national emergency. If it does, the Nixon administration will be able to claim success for its long-term approach to business and the economy, and for having cleaned up a mess inherited from a prior administration.

The great thing about politics is that no one really knows. Will the big issue of the 72 election be something new—perhaps the Near East?—or a serious, immediate confrontation on certain specific environmental bills? What about the rebuilding of our cities? Only time can tell, but for now, it appears as though the economy is the big thing, and political watchers should be reading the financial page just as steadily as the news of politics.

LETTERS To The Editor

Editor, The Post:

The current effort in the Congress to amend the Electoral College provisions of the Constitution, Article II. Section 1, seems to me to have a potential for harm to the Federal government system of these United States of America.

The House of Representatives on September 18, 1969, voted 339 to 70 in favor of a constitutional amendment to abolish the Electoral College and replace it by direct, popular election of President and Vice President. To me this seems a most incredulous expression in our Congress. It may be that many ballots were cast with one eye on the seat of the voter, in Congress especially from big city districts.

This past month I believe the matter was to have come to a vote in the U.S. Senate. If this action did actually take place, following the months of debate, I did not learn of the result.

Editor, The Post:

Saturday evening November 7, on Channel 2 the Women's Liberation Movement was the subject of a TV special titled "Women Are Revolting." Considering this to be a "broad" generalization, I looked up the meaning of "revolting" and found it to be "causing abhorrence or extreme disgust". On reconsidering, I suspect that "revolting" is the proper word for those involved in that movement but I still say "A Lady is A Lady is A Lady, and Vive la Difference"!

Edison Botique Slated on Friday

November 13 is the date for the Thomas Edison P-TA's third annual Christmas Boutique.

Boutique Chairman Helene Jaslow has been working with her many volunteers since early July and there will be a varied selection of items, from hand-made scarves to holiday centerpieces. Toys and games also will be on sale.

In addition, the P-TA will be selling ice cream, sno-cones, pink popcorn and baked goods.

Money raised at the boutique will go toward the Thomas Edison P-TA's sponsorship of cultural and educational experiences for the school's children.

Westmoor High School will present its fall semester play on two weekends in December in Westmoor's Little Theater. The curtain will go up at 8 p.m. on December 4, 5, 11 and 12.

The play, Moliere's, "The Miser" is under the direction of Kenneth Brown, drama coach at Westmoor.

Plans are completed for the presentation of November Noel, the luncheon and fashion show sponsored by Mercy Guild of San Francisco.

The annual social event of the Guild will be held at noon Saturday, in Barrett Hall of Mercy High School.

McDonald's of Serramonte has promised the latest in fashions and members of the Guild will be models for the day.

The San Francisco Women's Auxiliary to the California Pharmaceutical Association will hold its luncheon and meeting at Giovanni's Restaurant, 900 North Point, San Francisco, at noon, November 18.

Mrs. Sylvia Siegel of the Association of California Consumers will be guest speaker.

A Silent Auction also is planned.

Eight of Westmoor's best math students will compete in the prestigious Santa Clara Math Contest on November 14.

Two members of the sophomore class, Martin Kludjian and Gary Boyd; three juniors, Amy Hall, Bruce Zissen and Bud Arnott; and three seniors, Eric Bogatin, Jeff Harris; and Ed Johnson will represent Westmoor. Mr. James Potts, a math teacher at Westmoor, will sponsor the group's trip.

Santa Clara's contest is in its 12th year.

Teenagers are invited to sign up for social dance classes, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division, to be held at the Thomas Edison School, 1255 Southgate Drive, each Tuesday.

There are openings in the current six-week session which will begin on November 10 and continue through December 15.

THE MICHAEL LEONHARDTS (Kristina Wallin)

Vows Exchanged by Peninsula Pair

St. Andrews Episcopal Church in San Bruno was the recent setting for the marriage of Kristina Wallin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wallin of that city, and Michael Lawrence Leonhardt, son of the Lawrence Leonhardts of San Carlos.

After a reception at the El Rancho Restaurant in Millbrae, the couple departed for a honeymoon in Hawaii. They will live in Berkeley while Michael finishes graduate studies in electrical engineering at the University of California in Berkeley.

Kristina recited her vows in a floor length satin lace covered gown with long sleeves, shoulder length veil and white lace train.

Apricot floor length gowns with long sleeves of beige lace and beige lace necklines were worn by all the attendants. Holly Wallin was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Donald Birkenseer Jr. of Belmont and Chris Michelli of San Leandro, cousin of the bride.

Dan Mar of Menlo Park was best man and guests were seated by Bruce Bryson and Bob Fish of South San Francisco.

The new Mrs. Leonhardt is a graduate of Capuchino High School and the College of San Mateo. Michael is also an alumnus of Capuchino.

'Queen Liz' Reigns Over Westmoor

Senior Liz Williamson was Westmoor High School's Homecoming Queen in Daly City.

Also in the royal party during Homecoming activities were Patti Allen, senior princess; Sonja Twombly, junior princess; Theresa Trapani, sophomore princess, Angie Nieves, freshman princess.

Due to rainy weather and the wet track, crowning of the court took place during the November 6 rally instead of outdoors at the Terra Nova Ram football game. Girls took a bow during half time of the game.

The royal court was treated to dinner by the Westmoor Student body at the Moonraker Restaurant in Pacifica. Dressed in formals, the group then proceeded to the Homecoming Dance, entering over a royal draw bridge into a "Coat of Arms" atmosphere.

Music for the dance was provided by "Essence," formally Sly Fox.

Original nominations were open to the Student Body. Eight girls with the most votes were then interviewed by Vice President Bob Bizzo in front of the football players of their class. The team narrowed the nominees down to four, but in junior and freshmen classes five were selected due to ties.

The nominees then were voted upon by the whole student body, each class member voting for the nominees of his own class.

The Women's Auxiliary of Bethel Lutheran Church will present its "Harvest Social" November 19 in the Parish House, 2525 Alemany Boulevard.

Doors will open at 11:30 a.m. and lunch will be served from noon until 1:30 p.m.

An assortment of fancy work, gift items, and a white elephant table will be featured, as well as a selection of home made goods.

TERRA NOVA TOPICS

LIVENING-UP the daily school routine this week are the Homecoming Day activities scheduled for this Friday. Colorful signs and posters displaying varying degrees of class rivalry are hung up throughout the campus, and TN seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen try to out do each other in spirit as they compete for spirit points and the coveted Spirit Jcg award.

CLASS will be shirtened in order to provide ample time for the Homecoming activities. A 30 minute rally directly following 7th period will feature class skits and the announcement of the Homecoming Queen and Princesses. Immediately following the rally will be the Homecoming Parade. Class and club floats and decorated, honking cars, complete with police escort, will wind their way around Pacifica as an appropriate prelude for the "big game" against the Jefferson Indians.

COME EVENING, the senior class will welcome TN alumni and student body to the annual Homecoming Dance which they will be presenting this year. The theme of this semi-formal dance is "Mardi Gras," and will feature music by the "Ambassadors." It will be held in the cafetorium, from 8 to 11:30,

RONALD ALBERT NAIL, concert pianist, will be making his Pacifica comeback next week at the Crespi Elementary school auditorium. He will be benefitting Terra Nova's Jazz Band and their trip to the Western Division Jazz Band Festival in Reno.

The performance will start at 8:15 p.m., November 21.

Opera By Spindrift Group: 'Amahl and Night Visitors'

Three groups will join Pacifica's Spindrift Players in the production of Gian-Carlo Menotti's Amahl and the Night Visitors.

Aubrey Lumley, the production director, announced that the November 28 performances of the opera will be preceded with a musical program by the Lowell High School, San Francisco, Orchestra Ensemble.

The group was part of the full troupe that officially represented California and the City of San Francisco at the Losaka, Japan, Expo '70.

Amahl and the Night Visitors will be presented at 2:30 and 8:30 p.m.

At the 2:30 p.m. November 29 performance, under the auspices of the Pacifica Branch of AAUW, the Terra Nova High School Vocal Ensemble under the direction of John Bentley, will present an Entre-act contata, "Joseph and His Amazing Technicolor Robe."

The contata, according to Bentley, is Biblical in reference, but has been updated to the modern sounds. The vocal group is comprised of 50 voices. At the final matinee performance — December 6 — also under the auspices of the AAUW — the Skyline College Madrigal Singers will perform under the direction of Robert Millar.

The 12 voices comprising the madrigal will sing various 17th century works.

"Amahl and the Night Visitors" will run for the four performances only.

This will be the players' first venture in music, and for it they have surrounded themselves with a cast of more than 40. In the lead roles are, Mildred Owen and Frank Simon of Pacifica.

This mother and son team has experience in musical theatre, Mildred having sung with various Bay area opera groups and with many symphonies and church groups, and Frank having appeared with the Children's Opera Theatre of the East Bay.

Also in the cast: James Smalley, who has appeared in the Lamplighter's production of Amahl as well as with the San Francisco Conservatory Opera Workshop, in the role of Balthazar;

George Baker, a well known baritone, singing the role of Melchior as he did in 1953 in the West Coast Premier of the opera with the San Francisco Opera Guild Talent Bank; Dale Emde of Pacifica, who has appeared in various operas including La Boheme, La Traviata, Bartered Bride, and Susanah;

Tony Stibor of South San Francisco, who has appeared with the San Francisco Boys Chorus, and Claire Latham, also of South San Francisco, who is currently in the Lamplighter's production of The Pirates of Penzance, who previously has sung in the Lamplighter's production.

All performances will be in the Skyline College Main Theatre.

THE MARQUEE

Will Rogers was No Hick

Will Rogers Jr. spoke candidly of his late father, cutting through much of the myth, revealing insights to the private man and his family relationships when we lunched together last week. The public image is being emulated nightly by James Whitmore at the Marines Memorial Theater.

"My father and I weren't unduly close. From high school on, we were both gone from home a lot. I was a flaming liberal, he was more moderate which I took to be reactionary."

"He often tried out his lines on mother, not on me. He was very amusing around the house but I guess I didn't appreciate him then. There were no young people around the Santa Monica ranch (now the Will Rogers Memorial State Park) so we kids chose to attend boarding school," the 60-year-old Beverly Hills High alumnus related.

"My brother Jim was closer because he was a horseman. But dad was also very fond of Sis whom he took east several times with him."

To find one man today who was a match and had the personality of the popular columnist and wit would incorporate the comic talents of Bob Hope, the social commentaries of Eric Sevareid and political satire of Art Hoppe, the son concludes. He then added the personal experience format of Art Buchwald to that composite.

It was true that Rogers was a beloved western rural figure in films, that he had a tremendous hold on the public. And some of his best columns were not humorous but just talking about where he went and what he did.

During his years at Twentieth-Century-Fox studios he made 25 talkies and a similar number of silents. Scripts were tailor written for him and he never complained. While he was the world's greatest roper and the only true cowboy in films, he never made a Western.

"THEY WERE CONSIDERED declasse at the time. 'Steamboat Round the Bend' was about the Civil War; 'They Had To See Paris' was about a wealthy American going to Europe for the first time. Or he played the patriarch of a Southern family. He did make a series of two reel burlesque comedies for Hal Roach and a slow motion two reeler called 'The Roping Fool' where he did all his rope tricks in slow motion, made at his own expense. I'd lend those to the S.F. Film Festival if they ever did a Rogers program.

"Dad came out of prohibition not a drinker. He wouldn't take one if it was offered him. He came from Puritan stock. Our Claremore, Okla., relatives are Methodists who don't allow card playing on Sunday. We always went to church on Sunday and his family disapproved of him being in show business.

"He was a smart man, well read and kept up with all the magazines and papers of his day. His friends were Carl Sandburg, Will Durant, H. L. Menken and he liked Mark Twain. He mingled with royalty since his vaudeville days of 1914, traveled extensively and visited Russia in 1927, during Trotsky's day, via the Trans-Siberian Railway."

ROGERS, Jr. followed his father's lead by studying journalism at Stanford University and became publisher of the Beverly Hills News, which since he sold it has merged with the Hollywood Citizen News. The American hero's namesake is active with the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington, D.C., is in real estate in Arizona and manages the Rogers Foundation, in charge of his father's copyrights.

He came close to following in his father's footsteps on the screen, having appeared on several television series, was host of his own series out of New York and played the role of his father in the film biography, "The Will Rogers Story."

"They talked about me doing him on the stage. But I'm not a good enough actor to hold an audience for 1½ hours. Once when they were recording some of his radio speeches, I did the introduction and narration. But I sound so much like him, you couldn't tell us apart. So they hired an Englishman to do it.

"It's false that Dad was a homespun rural, a hick. He was actually right up to the minute. He would never have run for office, nor was he ever seriously considered. 'Alfalfa' Bill Murray of Okla., nominated him for the presidency as a joke during the 1932 Democratic Convention. He got up and made a 20-minute refusal speech to fill time while they looked around for a Vice President. Everyone knew that Roosevelt had it.

"Dad used to say, 'I'm a member of no organized political party. I'm a Democrat. He was pro-Roosevelt and pro-Coolidge. He followed the country closely and mirrored popular opinion. He was anti-war but also an isolationist. He was pragmatic about paying the war debt but was anti Wall Street and pro-farmer, before the big farm subsidies.

"And he paid terrific income taxes. He believed the rich should pay their share. No one has yet written a good biography on my father, nor a collection of his works. My mother's biography holds up the best, but its only one point of view."

NELL NORTON
Sugar 'n Spice

The markets are offering a colorful display of apples right now. Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Pippins, Rome Beautys, quite a variety of eating and cooking apples.

What better time to suggest that you try this tasty apple cake? It's a large cake, topped with a brown sugar glaze that is just great.

APPLE CAKE
- 3½ cups tart apples, peeled and chopped
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup melted margarine
- 3 eggs
- 3 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons soda
- ½ teaspoon each cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg and cloves
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chopped walnuts

(Bake 375-degree oven—1 hour.) Peel and chop enough tart apples to make three and one half cups. Combine with the two cups sugar and let stand while you sift together the three cups flour, two teaspoons soda, half teaspoon each cinnamon, all spice, nutmeg and cloves and the half teaspoon salt. Stir three tablespoons of sifted dry ingredients into the cup of chopped walnuts.

Mix this cake by hand.

Add the cup melted butter to the apple sugar mixture. Beat in the three eggs. Blend in the dry ingredients and the walnuts. Mix and turn into a well greased and lightly floured 9-inch cake pan.

Bake in 375-degree oven for one hour. Let the cake cool about 5 minutes and then remove from pan and place on a large cake plate. Cool till just warm and then glaze.

While the cake is cooling make the glaze thusly:

GLAZE
- 1 cube margarine
- 1 cup brown sugar
- ¼ cup condensed milk

In a sauce pan combine the cube of margarine, cut in pieces, one cup borwn sugar and fourth cup condensed milk. Bring to a boil, stirring and cook for 2½ minutes, stirring.

Remove from heat, cool for 5 minutes and then spoon over cake.

WHEN WE PLAN to make meat balls, we usually buy ground beef. Recently I concocted a dish using ground lamb as the main ingredient. We thought this was a delicious entree and it was inexpensive too. An attractive combination, I think you'll agree.

LAMB HAWAIIAN
- 1 pound ground lamb
- 1 1-pound can pineapple chunks
- ½ cup rolled oats
- 1 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 egg, beaten
- One-third cup pineapple juice

Drain the pineapple chunks and set aside.

Combine the pound ground lamb, half cup rolled oats, 1 teaspoon garlic salt, one beaten egg and one-third cup of the pineapple juice.

Form into small meat balls and brown in a small amount of fat. Drain off all but one tablespoon of drippings from the pan.

SAUCE
- 1 tablespoon corn starch
- ½ cup pineapple juice
- ½ cup water
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- Pineapple chunks

In a small saucepan combine the one tablespoon corn starch with the half cup each pineapple juice and water. Cook, stirring, until clear. Add the half teaspoon each sugar and salt and the fourth teaspoon ground ginger. Mix well.

Add the pineapple chunks to the meatballs in the skillet, pour the sauce over all and simmer, covered about 30 minutes.

Serve over hot rice. Makes 4 very generous servings.

THANKSGIVING is just around the corner. So next week Sugar 'Spice will feature ideas for that happy day.

Fresh Fruit, Vegetables Play Fashionable Role In Nutritious Meals

The Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association's Nutrition Awareness campaign which begins in September reminds everyone to pay special attention to menu planning. The fashionable meal is one balanced in nutrients, flavors and colors.

How about a main course of braised short ribs with potatoes and spinach? Potatoes play their usual important role. These great basics have provided hearty energy since early times in lots of styles — baked, boiled, mashed or fried. And fresh spinach is great with the beef.

As a perfect companion for the entree serve wedges of onion biscuit pie.

Fresh Grape Banana Bavarian arrives for dessert. This thick molded custard has the flavor of delectable bananas and juicy grapes.

BRAISED SHORT RIB VEGETABLE DINNER

- 3½ pounds beef short ribs, cut into serving pieces
- ½ cup chopped fresh onions
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon powdered thyme
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup boiling water
- 4 medium-sized potatoes, peeled
- 1 pound fresh spinach, washed

Heat Dutch oven or large heavy skillet until hot. Brown meat well on all sides. remove meat from pan; pour off drippings. Saute onions and garlic until lightly browned in meat pan. Return meat to pan. Sprinkle salt, thyme and pepper over meat. Pour water into pan. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Add tatoes. Continue cooking, covered, 45 minutes. Add spinach. Cover and cook about 15 minutes or until spinach is just tender. Makes 4 servings.

FRESH ONION BISCUIT PIE

- 1 cup chopped fresh onions
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cups packaged biscuit mix
- ½ cup water

Saute onions in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until browned; set aside. Stir together biscuit mix and water with fork to make a soft dough. Smooth dough into a ball on lightly floured board. Knead 5 times. Roll out one-half dough into a 7-inch circle. Fit into a lightly buttered 9-inch pie plate. Spread sauteed onions over surface. Roll out remaining dough into a 9-inch circle. Fit dough over onions. Melt remaining butter or margarine; brush over surface. Bake in 425 degree F. oven 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes about 6 servings.

FRESH GRAPE BANANA BAVARIAN

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ½ cup milk
- 3 medium-sized ripe bananas
- 3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1½ cups halved, seeded grapes

Soften gelatine in milk. Dissolve over boiling water. Mash bananas until smooth, or blend in electric blender. Mix sugar, lemon juice and gelatine into bananas. Whip cream until stiff. Fold into banana mixture. Fold in grapes. Turn into lightly oiled 1-quart mold. Chill at least 3 hours. Unmold just before serving. Makes about 4 servings.

Protein Foods Reminder List

Since body tissues contain protein, this nutrient is essential in the diets of people of all ages. It is especially important during periods when new tissue is being produced, such as during growth years of children, the reproduction stage of pregnant women, and the healing of Billy's cut knee.

Some important protein foods are eggs, chicken, fish, and meats of all kinds, beef, veal, lamb, and pork — and dried beans and peas. Try to eat two of any of these foods every day.

Add Cordial Fillip to Fall Menus

Some seasoning suggestions for entrees as well as the more traditional dessert usage come from recipe developers at Hiram Walker distillers, using the brand's cordials.

Liqueur-flavored ham, steak and veal join after-dinner sweets in the cook's repertoire of cordial cookery.

BAKED HAM

- 10-12 pound precooked ham
- ¾ cup brown sugar
- 3 Tbsp. cherry, peach or apricot flavored brandy
- ½ cup cherry (or other flavor) brandy, to which 2 Tbsp. dry mustard has been added
- Whole Cloves

Roast ham according to instructions. An hour before ham is done, score criss-cross fashion, stud with whole cloves. Sprinkle with brown sugar, and over the sugar sprinkle 3 Tbsp. Cherry Flavored Brandy. Pour into the pan ½ cup Cherry Flavored Brandy to which 2 Tbsp. dry mustard has been added. Return the pan to oven, continue roasting for last hour, basting fresuently with syrup in the pan.

VEAL TRIPLE SEC

- 4 veal cutlets thinly sliced
- 3 Tbsp. butter
- 2 oz. rich beef stock
- 2 oz. Triple Sec
- parsley

Season the cutlets with salt and pepper. Brown quickly in butter. Add beef stock and Triple Sec, simmer slowly 5 minutes. Arrange on heated platter, add the pan juices and garnish with parsley.

STEAK DIANE

- 4 thin steaks
- 5 Tbsp. butter
- 1 Tbsp. chopped shallot
- 1 Tbsp. chopped chives
- 1 Tbsp. parsley
- 1 Tbsp. Worchestershire Sauce
- 3 oz. Apricot Flavored Brandy

In a heavy skillet, saute the shallot in 4 Tbsp. butter. Sear the steaks on both sides. Add remaining ingredients and saute until done.

CHOCOLATE FONDUE

- 9 oz. milk chocolate
- 1 oz. unsweetened chocolate
- 3 oz. Coffee Brandy
- 3 oz. light cream

Combine all ingredients. Stir slowly over heat until smooth. Serve with bite-size dippables: pineapple chunks, kumquats, cocktail marshmallows, orange and grapefruit sections, strawberries, cherries.

GRASSHOPPER PIE

Melt 4 Tbsp. butter, stir into 24 crushed chocolate wafers, use for crust (press into 8-inch pie plate). Melt 24 marshmallows in ½ cup milk. Cool. Stir in 4 Tbsp. Green Creme de Menthe and 2 Tbsp. White Creme de Cacao. Fold in 1 cup whipped cream, pour into pie shell. Garnish with red maraschino cherry and grated semi-sweet chocolate over top. Freeze. Serve frozen.

Safeway BRANDS — Finest Quality At Lower Discount Prices
Greatest VARIETY — In Meats, Produce and Groceries

THERE'S EXTRA ASSURANCE OF FRESHNESS WHEN YOU BUY THESE OPEN-DATED FOODS

Safeway Brands of perishable foods (such as meats, eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell quickly and are on and off our shelves in a matter of hours. Even so, we take no chances. Perishable foods which we manufacture or process carry dates to guide our store people. For example, on a bagged loaf of Safeway-baked bread, the date is on a plastic tab as shown below.

When the number "15" appears on this tab, our employees know the loaf is not to be sold at full price after the 15th day of the current month. This ensures that you are buying bread which will be fresh and good for several days in your home. (Loaves dated "15" are sold on the 16th only as "leftover bread" at a reduced price.)

On bread without this tab, the date is printed on a price seal at end of the loaf like this:

Monterey Jack Cheese Inspires Cuisine Reminiscent of Spain

California's only native cheese, Monterey jack, serves well as an accompaniment for fruits, as an ingredient in a wide variety of dishes, or as an unaccompanied snack.

A Monterey firm, California Seasons, has undertaken to have the cheese produced in the original manner, small quantities, hand worked and gift packaged.

During the last century this cheese was made by farmers in the Monterey area for their families' consumption. Ultimately, the process of making the cheese derives from that used by the early Spanish settlers in the area and the Mission fathers. The name may be traced to Col. David Jacks, an early settler in the area, who in 1892 began buying the surplus cheese from the local farmers and reselling it.

As with any fine cheese, the making of good Monterey jack, requires time and a great deal of hand labor. To assure a rich nutty flavor and a creamy consistency, the cheese must be made in small rounds, three to six pound rounds being preferable to a twelve pound round being the maximum. While it is aging for a minimum of sixty days the cheese must be turned over every two or three days to assure even distribution of moisture.

Most California Spanish dishes call for Monterey jack. One of the receipes developed by California Seasons is Monterey Sunday Supper.

Monterey Sunday Supper

1 cup rice
1 7 oz. can green chilis
3 medium zucchini
1 tomato, large
1 lb. Monterey jack cheese
2 cups sour cream
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. garlic salt
2 tbls. chopped green pepper
2 tbls. chopped green onion
1 tbls. parsley salt
pepper

Cook rice until tender. Thin slice and parboil zucchini. Slit chilis and remove seeds. Cut half of the cheese in narrow strips and insert into chilis. In a well buttered casserole or oven dish place rice, cover with a layer of chilis and cheese, then zucchini and top with the tomato sliced. Mix the sour cream with the spices, green pepper and onions and pour over the vegetables. Grate the remaining cheese over the mixture. Sprinkle with parsley and bake in 350 Deg. oven for thirty minutes. Serves 8. Serve with fruit salad or green salad. Custard or fruit and cookies may be served as dessert.

Monterey Toast

Monterey Jack Cheese
French bread or french rolls
Garlic
Olive oil or butter

Cut the bread into ¾" slices. For each slice of bread put 2 tbls. oil and 1 crushed barlic clove into a frying pan. Heat. Dip one side of bread in oil and garlic mix. Remove, place ¼" layer of cheese on dipped side of bread andplace under broiler until cheese is melted. Serve hot.

Egyptian Egg Rarebit

1 10 oz. can tomato soup
½ lb. Monterey jack cheese, grated
1 egg
1-3 cup pimento stuffed olives, chopped fine
Water, 5 oz. (half soup can)

Mix soup, grated cheese and water and cook in double boiler until cheese melts, stirring occasionally. Beat egg well and add small amount of cheese mix to it, combine. Add egg mixture to remaining soup and cheese and cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Gently fold in chop olive. Serve on toast points.

Huevos Monterey

4 medium artichoke hearts, canned or cooked
4 tortillas
4 eggs
2 cups tomato juice
½ lb. Monterey jack cheese, grated
½ tsp. oregano
1 tsp. pepper
½ tsp. garlic salt
1 tsp. chili powder, parsley or minced onion

Heat tomato juice and seasonings until reduced and thickened. Break eggs on plate and slide gently into sauce. Poach in sauce until eggs are at desired consistency. Remove eggs to warm oven. Add ¾ of grated cheese to sauce, cook until melted. Place sliced artichokes on heated tortillas, place eggs on artichokes and cover with sauce. Dust with remaining grated cheese and garnish with parsley or minced onion. Serves 4.

Wine Gives Beef Tongue Party Flavor

Tongue is a specialty meat not used too often by American cooks. Yet cooked in white wine, it is not only easy to make and delicious; but pleasantly low in calories too —about 200 per serving.

The recipe comes from the vineyards of Paul Masson; the wine chosen to match it (and to cook in it) is Emerald Dry Riesling.

The dish is prepared a day or two ahead of serving gime, the flavors get fuller and better for the waiting. All you have to do at serving time is simply reheat the tongue in its white-wine sauce.

Besides wine, good accompaniments are French bread and sweet butter and a lettuce and fresh leaf spinach salad.

TONGUE IN WHITE WINE

3½ pounds fresh beef tongue
1 large onion thinkly sliced
2 large carrots, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter
1¼ cups Emeral Dry Wine
3 tablespoons flour
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 can (10½ ounces beef broth, undiluted)
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon each freshly ground black pepper and crumbled dried thyme
3 large sprigs parsley
2 celery stalks, cut up
1 bay leaf
2 ripe fresh tomatoes, diced (or equivalent of drained canned tomatoes
Chopped fresh parsley

Wash tongue, place in a kettler with cold water to cover, heat to boiling, boil for 10 minutes, drain. Trim skin and excess fat and root tissue from tongue. In a heavy kettle, saute tongue, onions and carrots together over medium heat in butter until tongue is browned on all sides. Add wine; cover and simmer for 15 minutes.

Mix flour with water to make a smooth taste, then mix with broth; add to liquid in kettle and cook, stirring, until slightly thickened. Add remaining ingredients except chopped parsley. Cover and simmer until tongue is very tender, about 2 hours; turn once or twice.

Remove tongue from kettle; thinly slice across the grain. Strain sauce, adding to the strained liquid any of the vegetables which puree and press through sieve readly. Taste and correct seasoning; spoon sauce over tongue slices. Cover and chill.

Before serving, skim off any excess fat, cover and slowly reheat on top of the stove or in a moderate oven and sprinkle with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

To serve immediately — skim off excess fat and heat through.

Cubed Beef Italian Style

Cubed beef steaks are especially appropriate for summer cooking because they take so little time to prepare. For an intriguing entree, season the Italian way with oregano and basil and top each first-browned side with a slice of mozzarella or Romano cheese for added appeal.

Mint Garnish For Fruit Cup

Minted fruit cocktail combines well with crisp almond cookies. Drain the syrup from a can (1 pound 14 ounces) of fruit cocktail and heat to boiling. Pour over 2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint, cover and cool. Strain syrup, add juice of 1 lemon and combine with fruit cocktail. Garnish with fresh mint sprigs if you like.

Bruno Man Gun Victim

A 22-year-old San Bruno man is in fair condition today in a Peninsula Hospital after sustaining a gunshot wound in the abdomen late Sunday afternoon. Police said it was apparently self-inflicted.

According to police reports, David Ross Taylor, of 240 Linden Avenue, said he was despondent over a breakup with his girl friend.

Police said he drove a car to the city park, where he reportedly shot himself in the stomach. Although police were unable to find a weapon because of approaching darkness, they assumed it to be a 22 caliber revolver.

The young man told police he had thrown the gun away, and then drove to his girl friend's house where he called an ambulance, they reported.

Police said they also found several suicide notes.

Two Suspects in Robbery are Arrested

Two men were arrested last night and charged with the armed robbery of a Pacifica service station.

Joseph Delucca, Jr., 21, of 5530 Mission Street, San Francisco, and Michael D. Nunes, 23, 97 Belhaven Drive, Daly City, were apprehended in South San Francisco.

Pacifica Patrolman Bob Robinson said they were suspects in the robbery of Fairmont Mobil at 700 Hickey Boulevard of $30.

While Nunes assertedly remained in the pair's parked car, Delucca allegedly approached attendant Anthony Santos, 18, simulating a gun in his right pocket and wearing a T-shirt over his nose and mouth, Robinson said.

No gun was found, it was added.

Highway Bids Are Received

Four bids have been received by the California Division of Highways on the job of modifying or replacing sections of guardrail along Route 1 in Pacifica, and Route 280 in San Bruno.

A division spokesman said lowest bidder of the four contractors offering to do the work, was Modern Alloy Fabricators, with a bid of $53,054.

To be replaced or modified, are guard rails between along Route 1 between Clarendon Road in Pacifica, and the San Francisco County line.

Similar work will be done along Route 280, from just south of Knowles Avenue overcrossing in Daly City, to San Bruno.

Sale Slated at Crestmoor

Crestmoor High School P-TA will have a rummage sale in the San Bruno school's cafeteria Thursday, November 19, open to the public from 3 to 8:30 p.m. A sale hour for students only will be at 2 p.m.

Proceeds will go to the P-TA scholarship fund. Donations will be picked up or may be taken to the school by noon of the sale day. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. DeWitt Samora, 1678 Holly Avenue, San Bruno.

Building Lags In Pacifica

Construction in Pacifica remains substantially behind last years, according to Philip W. Mayo, building inspection department head.

Mayo's October report showed a valuation of $157,862 on 41 permits, in contrast to a figure of $274,544 on 51 permits in October, 1969.

The October valuation brought the total from July 1 through October 31 to $799,612, compared with the previous fiscal year's total of $1,707,485.

D.C. Woman Is Robbed

An elderly Daly City woman was the victim of a strongarm purse snatch at the corner of San Jose Avenue and Flournoy Street Sunday night shortly after 5 pm..

The victim told police she was walking home when a young man with an afro hair style grabbed her purse and ran to a waiting car.

Thousands of Meals Each Day

By GEORGE GOLDING

The largest cafe in San Mateo county has no headwaiter, and no candle-lit "atmosphere," but it specializes in an attempt to produce superb food several thousand times a day.

Actually, it is not a "cafe." It's the United Air Lines flight kitchen at San Francisco International Airport, and commissary on Mahler Road in Burlingame.

Together, they produce 6000 to 8000 hot meals daily, "plus snacks and beverages and sandwiches."

The sandwiches and some of the snacks go to United's three cafeterias and several vending machines which serve the 8000 workers at the airline's big maintenance base and other on-airport operations.

The hot meals go aboard the airlines' "Mainliners."

"We put a complete restaurant into the air with every airliner," says John Wolfsheimer, executive chef.

Sometimes, that "complete restaurant" includes Wolfsheimer, who hops aboard an outbound flight to see how well his food is being served. He'll carve the roast for First Class passengers, or squeeze his well-fed girth into the galley to check that the wines are being kept at the proper temperature.

It is because of Wolfsheimer, that United offers "Gourmet Flights" on certain trips.

Because of him, also, the menu filled by 240 cooks, bakers, pantry workers, and other kitchen workers, is never a simple one.

There are entrees like Galantine of Capon Garni, with Cumberland Sauce; or Roast Baron of Beef, with Bordelaise sauce; desserts such as Pousse Cafe Parfait, Cassata Naolitaine, and petit fours by the thousand.

Entrees are produced in the flight kitchen, on the airport, but desserts are made up in the commissary in Burlingame.

William P. Morrison, manager of the commissary, "works to an inventory," instead of filling individual orders as they come in.

Pastry bakers fix hundreds of torte shells, scores of pies, dozens of cakes, thousands of sweet rolls, every day. Once cooked, they are quickly placed in cold storage to be withdrawn as needed. Careful control is kept to insure that all food is fresh. The inventory is carefully calculated on the basis of known upcoming flights, and ex-

RARE? OR MEDIUM? Executive Chef John Wolfsheimer occasionally asks that question aboard a United flight to Hawaii, partly to provide "gourmet" service, and partly to see how the customers react to dishes he and 240 others have prepared.

PREPARING ENTREE dishes for on-board service, cooks Ralph Ledesma and Heinz Henning place pot roast with rice dish on trays which will be flash-cooked before being added to passenger food tray. (Post Photo)

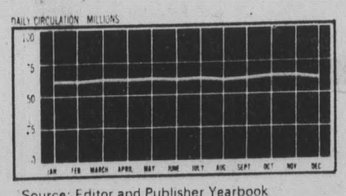
Always in season . . .

People change activity with the seasons of the year, take vacations, move from one town to another. But their habit of reading newspapers seldom varies. A local newspaper gives residents the word on their favorite store's weekly sales event, while greeting visitors with information about entertainment, dining, places to see. Local news AND advertising are welcome components of a newspaper.



Newspaper circulation is constant through the year.

Thousands of Meals from Flight Kitchen

pected numbers of passengers.

In the commissary, also, pantry workers whip out sandwiches for the vending machines and cafeterias, and do "rough salad" work for the flight kitchen. They chop lettuce by the crate, and prepare all the other items demanded by chef Wolfsheimer's salad menu for the week.

A separate section is devoted to sorting the miniature liquor bottles that are used aboard, and arranging little racks according to calculated demand.

Throughout the 24-hour flying schedule, various crews are working in these different locations and occupations.

The job of every one, from assistant pantry worker to Executive Chef, is to see that every meal not only tastes good and is good, but looks appealing even if it is mass produced.

That's not an easy goal to achieve.

Yet the bakers and pastry chefs turn out cakes that delight any eye, by the hundred.

"We never make any batch of anything that's less than 25 gallons," says Morrison, at the commissary.

Bustling bakers turn out 16,000 to 20,000 sweet rolls in the early morning, so that every flight has fresh breads. (Loaf bread is not made, it is bought from an outside bakery).

Every menu approved by Wolfsheimer has "some fresh pastry," something "fresh and rich, but not too sticky." Airline passengers don't like sticky fingers.

Petit fours and pies and cakes are baked for several other stations, as well as San Francisco. Passengers flying United from Hawaii, Salt Lake, Portland, and San Jose, will be fed sweet pastries baked in Burlingame.

Crash Kills Pacifican

A San Mateo County man whose car went out of control and plunged off an overpass as he tried to enter Highway 50 near Livermore was reported instantly killed Thursday.

The victim was identified as Robert F. (Bob) Johnson, 51, of 304 Magellan Drive, Pacifica. He was a salesman for 22 years for a dairy and dry food products firm and was coming home from a business trip to the San Joaquin Valley. The accident occurred 14 miles east of Livermore.

Johnson was a member of Pacific Parlor No. 10, Native Sons of the Golden West.

He is survived by his wife, Anne, of Pacifica; a son, Robert G. Johnson of Concord; three daughters, Miss Susan Johnson of Pacifica, Mrs. Charles R. Iverson of San Mateo, Mrs. Fred G. Smith of Pinole; a brother, Chris P. Johnson of San Mateo; two sister, Mrs. Gladys Jerue, Kelseyville, Calif., and Mrs. Jane Louise Goszulak of South San Francisco; his mother, Mrs. Pauline Johnson of Kelseyville. He was the son of the late Chris Johnson, Sr.

Four grandchildren also survive, Gregory and Kathryn Smith of Pinole, Phillip and Steven Johnson of Concord.

Funeral services were conducted on Monday morning at 9:15 a.m. from the Patterson and O'Connell Chapel. A requiem mass was recited at 10 a.m. at St. Kevin's Catholic Church at 704 Cortland Avenue, San Francisco. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma. The rosary was recited Sunday night at 8 at the chapel.
